TROLLEY STRIKE CARS CRASH AND IN ALBANY SETTLED. BRIDGE FALLS TWO KILLED

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The strike which has completely tied up service in Albany and Rensselaer since Monday and in Troy, Green Island, Cohoes and Watervliet since yesterday, was settled at noon today. Differences between the men and the United Traction Co. officials will be adjusted by arbitration. Orders were issued for the resumption of service as soon as possible.

MOTOR TRUCK SKIDDED IN FRONT OF CAR

John A. Howard of the Howard Express Co. of North Chelmsford had a narrow escape last evening when the auto truck which he was driving along Central street skidded on the tracks in front of an approaching Boston bound car. Mr. Howard was headed toward the residence just in front of the car when about opposite Warren street his machine skidded and turned half way around. It stopped, blocking the track, directly in front of the car. The motorman applied his reverse and brought the car to a stop just as it came in contact with the auto truck. The step and mud guard on one side of the truck were damaged.

FOR THE BOYS' CLUB BIG WORKERS ENGAGED

Frederick Courtenay Barber, director-general of the campaign for the Lowell Boys' club, will arrive in Lowell tonight. He will conduct the public campaign which will last only one week. Mr. Barber today telegraphed to Andrew E. Clement, director of the movement for the Boys' club, assuring that he is convinced from the reports of the rapid organization of the volunteer corps that Lowell will do even more than many other cities have done for the Boys' club.

Mr. Barber has been engaged in ten large money raising movements since the first of the year. He will leave immediately after the Lowell campaign for Providence, R. I., where he is to direct a movement for $250,000. By the first of January he will have raised for various philanthropies in many parts of the country between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000.

LAWYER WILSON SAYS NOTHING IS PROVED AGAINST ROPER

Arguments for the acquittal and conviction of Albert J. Roper, charged with the murder of his father, were heard at today's session at the court house at East Cambridge. Lawyer Wilson, senior counsel for the defense, started his argument shortly after the opening of the session at 10 o'clock, and at the conclusion of his remarks, Maj. Robert J. Crowley, deputy district attorney, opened his argument.

Mr. Wilson's Argument

Mr. Wilson spoke in part as follows: "May it please the court, foreman and gentlemen of the jury. There is so much here that it seems beyond our mind to remember, and if I omit anything, do not think that I did it intentionally. Look into this case carefully and see if there is one thing that is certain. Isn't there doubt and uncertainty in every step that the commonwealth has taken. Doesn't it appear to you that nothing has been proven beyond a reasonable doubt?

"The government took a little over two weeks and the defense occupied a little less than two days.

"There has not been one scintilla of proof that Albert J. Roper was not in Boston Wednesday night, March 1. There is nothing to show that Mrs. Bailey did not see him that night. There has been nothing to show that he was not at the New Richmond hotel shortly after 11 o'clock that night.

"The government was also unable to shake the testimony of little Dorothy Fox.

"If you find that Albert J. Roper was in that hotel even before 11 o'clock you must find that he is not guilty, for it would be impossible for him to reach that hotel until 11.35 at the latest in case that his father was last seen at ten or fifteen minutes after nine o'clock.

Mr. Wilson then spoke of the principles of law and presumption of motive. "If this were a mere civil case, only a few thousand might be at stake, but a man's life is now at stake. The presumption of evidence in this case is that Albert J. Roper was in that house in Boston in Roxbury that night.

"Human memory is very uncertain and there are many cases of mistaken identity.

"Some time between 9.15 and 10 o'clock on the night of Wednesday, March 1, some person struck down Albert Roper, the Tewksbury forist. We do not know whether that person was a thug who knew of the money he carried in his pocket and had seen it on the open market. Who committed that deed the officers have not found.

"If Gale said he could not be certain that he saw Roper on Wednesday night how can you be certain? Harnden said he saw him and that it was Albert Roper who got on the car at James street.

"I want to call your attention to the uncertainty of that $10 gold piece. Would you find if a man were on trial for stealing the identical $10 gold piece, if that were the only question involved, would you find the defendant guilty? Absolutely the gold piece that Roper gave Mrs. Fox was not the piece that the senior Roper carried in his possession.

"Albert J. Roper had $55 in his possession on March 1. He accounts for that. But where is the $300 or $400 that the elder Roper was known to have had in his possession on the night of the murder?

"Take Mrs. Fox, for instance. If there is any damaging testimony in this case it is that given by Mrs. Fox; but she has told the truth. She opened her heart and her mouth to the state police and when she was placed on the stand here she told the whole truth. She kept nothing back.

"What did Mrs. Roper, the mother, testify? She said that the relation between father and son were the best. Despite the fact that Bert wandered away from the fireside, his thoughts were of home. It would have been better if he had not gone away for by doing so it brought down suspicion on him.

"Why would you have thought if Bert went over the depot and got that awful wreath and did away with it? The knew where it came from and instead of destroying it, it was taken into the parlor and the elder Roper and Albert, his son, talked about it.

"If he had any fear would he not have destroyed it? You have got to find that there was a motive for robbery and premeditation to find him guilty. There has not been one scintilla of proof produced. You have got to find that he and his father were the best of friends. Even though you did do something wrong at one time the father went to his rescue. It can never be shown that the father ever scolded his children. You will not send a man to his doom on suspicion."

Scores the Police

Mr. Wilson at this point referred to the grilling examination that the defendant was put through at the police station on the Thursday and Friday following the murder and said that since that time they have not been trying to get a real murder, but their sole object has been to try to convict Albert J. Roper. "Let us hope that we will never be placed in a position where the police will be more dangerous to us than the thug."

"Has a person told you that Albert J.

Roper has not been peaceable and humane? Who is the better judge of the character of the man and better qualified to say whether he is guilty or innocent, the mother, sister and brother, or the police in that torture chamber? "Albert Roper has not changed his story at any time since that Thursday afternoon when he was taken before the police. He has not broken down, neither has he lied. The certainty of the truth of the story told by Albert J. Roper has been established. If you believe that he has told a true story, why not let him go home where he should be?"

"Take, for instance, this iron pipe. There is not the slightest proof that this pipe has anything to do with the case. It is almost certain that he was not killed with that instrument. It is a rank guess that that instrument had anything to do with the killing of Albert Roper.

"There was $23 found under the rug in the room at Wait street; it was near the couch on which he had slept the night before. Where did the $300 or $400 that his father had gone van said about the $55 being lost several months before it was discovered by the defendant? If you find that that money was in the closet between October and January then you have got to find him not guilty. As was testified to he discovered that money while he was repairing the shelf in the closet.

"Mrs. Fox has testified on the stand that Bert had a right to take any money which she had. She gave him that privilege.

RECEPTION IS TENDERED MR. AND MRS. BOUCHER

A pleasant gathering of friends took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Robillard, 1000 Broadway street on the occasion of a reception to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boucher, two prominent young people, formerly of this city, who were recently married in Montreal, Que. There were about 25 couples present and all spent a most enjoyable evening. A musical program was given, those taking part being Miss Stella Latour, Emery C. Gauvin, Telephone Male, Alfred Ducharme, Leo Sylvestre, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boucher, L. J. Robillard, Hector Robillard, Armand Sicard and others. A buffet luncheon was served and the party broke up at a seasonably hour after those present had extended their best wishes to the newly wedded couple.

Mr. Boucher, who is holding a responsible position at the Plume hotel in Montreal, was married to Miss Blanche Parry, a prominent young woman of the Canadian metropolis and formerly of this city, on Sept. 18, the ceremony being performed at St. Peter's church.

The young couple left on a honeymoon trip through New England and are at present in this city.

Mr. Boucher is well known in this city especially in minister and baseball circles. At one time he was a member of the Lowell team, St. Groves, and was noted as a clever third baseman. He is still interested in baseball, being a member of a strong amateur team of Montreal, the Metropole, which won 21 games out of 24 during the past season. The couple will remain in this city until after the world's series, for they will both take in the games in Boston.

TWO RAILROADS NOT TO PAY FRANCHISE TAX

TAXATION COMMISSIONER TREFRY OF MASSACHUSETTS MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Neither the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad nor the Boston & Maine railroad will pay a franchise tax to this state for the present fiscal year, it was learned today. Because of the "abnormally low market value of their stocks," Taxation Commissioner Trefry said he had decided to impose no tax of this nature on the companies.

The New Haven road last year paid $13,376 and four years ago paid $573,395, while the Boston & Maine's franchise tax in its prosperous days was $117,353. The Boston & Albany will be asked to pay $37,306 this year as compared with former high payments of $343,923.

RELATIVES CONTEST WILL OF MISS MORSE

A special session of the probate court was held in this city this forenoon with Justice Chamberlain on the bench for the purpose of hearing the evidence on the petition calling for the disallowance of the will of the late Miss Elia E. Morse, who left an estate of between $50,000 and $60,000 to friends. The petition was filed by the heirs-at-law of deceased, two cousins, Lena Caswell and Mrs. Morse, who were ignored in the will.

Miss Morse made what purports to be her last will on June 22, 1915, and she passed away on May 23, 1916. In her will she left $10,000 to Rev. Dr. C. F. Fisher, pastor of the First Universalist church, and $10,000 to Louise Holden, a friend, while the remainder of the estate was left to Daniel F. MacKenzie, another friend, who was also appointed administrator of the estate.

The will is being contested on the grounds of undue influence. Francis M. Qua for the will and D. J. Donahue and Judge F. A. Fisher of this city and William T. Atwood of Boston for the contestants.

The hearing was held in the probate court room and the first witness called was Francis W. Qua, Esq., who testified to witnessing the will and also that in his belief deceased was of sound mind when she made her will. Alfred S. Gould also testified of being a witness to the will and of the sound mind of the deceased. Harry A. Brown testified to knowing Miss Morse for many years, having been a classmate of hers, and he told of drawing the will. He said when Miss Morse called at his office to make her will, she informed him her nearest relatives were cousins, but did not care to remember them in her will. He said the amount of Miss Morse's estate is between $50,000 and $60,000.

The contestants did not testify and the judge reserved his decision until a later date. Lawyer Donahue is favoring the will and the heirs are in favor of the will he will appeal the decision.

Deposit now in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank, Saturday, October 14th, is Quarter Day.

WATERWAYS COMMITTEE CAN'T MAKE PURCHASES QUOTH THE MAYOR

That the committee on waterways has no right to purchase lungmoters was made very plain by Mayor O'Donnell this morning in the course of a conversation having to do with a communication received by the municipal council from the committee. The letter is signed by eleven local physicians who endorse the request of the committee for the purchase by the city of two lungmoters, one to be kept at the police station, the other on the ambulance. The mayor said he would favor the purchase of one lungmoter.

"The city government for 1914-15," said His Honor, "purchased a lungmoter which was highly recommended at that time. This lungmoter is still in our possession and, so far as the mechanical parts are concerned, is in perfect order. I don't feel that we should discard it merely to purchase other machines, as is proposed. I will not be adverse to buying one more machine and that a lungmoter."

"Understand," said the mayor's interrogator, "that the committee on waterways has already ordered two lungmoters and that they have arrived in Lowell. Do you know if that is true?"

"Yes, I understand that is true. But the machines have not been purchased."

"Has the committee the right to purchase them?"

"The committee has no right to make such a purchase and neither has the mayor the right to do so. Only the city council has the right, and any money appropriated for the committee on waterways must be spent under the supervision of the municipal council. The lungmoters must be purchased and, so far as the mayor is concerned, he will not approve of the purchase of more than one of them."

Letter Received by Council

The following is a copy of the letter received by the municipal council relative to the purchase of two lungmoters:

At the invitation of the waterways commission the undersigned members of the medical profession witnessed a demonstration of the lungmoter recently given in Lowell.

Realizing the inefficiency of the pulmotor at present owned by the city and being informed that the pulmotor has been examined and discarded by the U. S. government and the leading hospitals, and being convinced by demonstration and scientific recommendation that the lungmoter is an invaluable device for use in cases of asphyxiation, suffocation and apparent drowning, electric shock and other accidents as well as in certain diseases affecting respiratory apparatus, we heartily endorse the request of the waterways commission for the purchase by the city of two lungmoters, one to be kept at the police station, the other on the ambulance.

We furthermore recommend this purchase because of conditions agreed upon with the Lungmoter company, namely: "That in any event the lungmoter should prove unsatisfactory in a period of one year, the same has been given fair trial, the money paid will be returned on demand."

DOINGS AT CAMP COTTON TOLD BY LOWELL BOY

Following is a letter from Sgt. Haggerty at Camp Cotton, El Paso, Tex., Sept. 28, 1916.

Another week has passed and still we continue to hike the sandy roads of Texas and all because our friends across the river, Francisco Villa, has "come to life again." However, we have not given up hopes of reaching Boston in time to see one of the world's series games for the war department has ordered Gen. Funston to pick 10,000 troops to be returned to their respective places and the Massachusetts boys have been here now longer than any other body of eastern troops and are most likely to be the first picked to return. According to this morning's local papers we are scheduled to go on a 67-mile hike to Fort Selden on the 10th division, heading next Monday, but that is not official. We would welcome such a hike, though, rather than stay here in camp for another week for the regular routine of camp life has become monotonous. Today, the company went to the rifle range for target practice and the boys were all anxious to see their rifles for this is the first time that most of us have had an opportunity to fire them and there isn't one who wants to go home without having fired a shot, even though it only be at a target.

Our longing for a little adventure still shows itself every little while and our latest prank was well worth the experience. Not having anything in particular to do last Sunday, we looked about for new worlds to conquer. In the three months that we have been here we have seen about everything there is to see on this side of the Rio Grande, so our thoughts turned towards the other side of the river, or over in Mexico. Juarez has the name of being the Monte Carlo of America owing to its great gambling places, but during the past few years, owing to the internal troubles it has lost its chief source of revenue, the American tourists, and these places were all closed up, but the Carranza government is endeavoring to bring Juarez back again to the position it once held in the sporting world.

Trip to Juarez. About 11 a. m. we left camp in search of some place where we could borrow, rent or steal a suit of "cit's," for we would not be allowed to go over in uniform. We found a small clothing store on El Paso street and after a little wrangling with the proprietor, he consented to let the outfit for the sum of $2.50, holding our uniforms for security. Fifteen minutes afterwards we were on our way down El Paso street, all out of step, our hands in our pockets, trying our best to look as unsuspicious as possible. Here we separated into pairs so as not to excite suspicion and took the Mexican car at different street corners.

On the American side of the International bridge the car is stopped by the American officials and a corporal of the guard goes through the car and looks everybody over. He no doubt recognized us, but has probably done the same thing himself and passed the right by without saying a word. The car is stopped again on the Mexican side of the bridge and searched by the Mexican guard, but we passed by them, also and in about five minutes reached in the heart of Juarez.

First call in the morning has been changed from 6.15 to 5.45 now that the days are getting shorter. The meals are the best ever now that we have got onto the knack of buying right. Every man is allowed 28 cents per day for rations and the army regulations provide that no man can be saved from any appropriation for that purpose so what is left over this month is spent the next on extras.

The division parade was a sight that the boys will long remember. Thirty-five thousand troops formed in one solid square made a very pretty sight.

And still another day on the border.

Friends should not stop writing to the boys until they hear we have left as all mail will be sent after us. Sgt. Haggerty.

ADVOCATES UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING

BANKER VANDERLIP SAYS AMERICANS SHOULD PROFIT BY EXPERIENCE OF EUROPE

FRANK A. VANDERLIP

"If ever a people should pause, if ever they should look abroad and profit by the experiences of others, should comprehend their national dangers in the light of the terrible realities that are being enacted before their eyes in other nations, it is now, and we are that people."

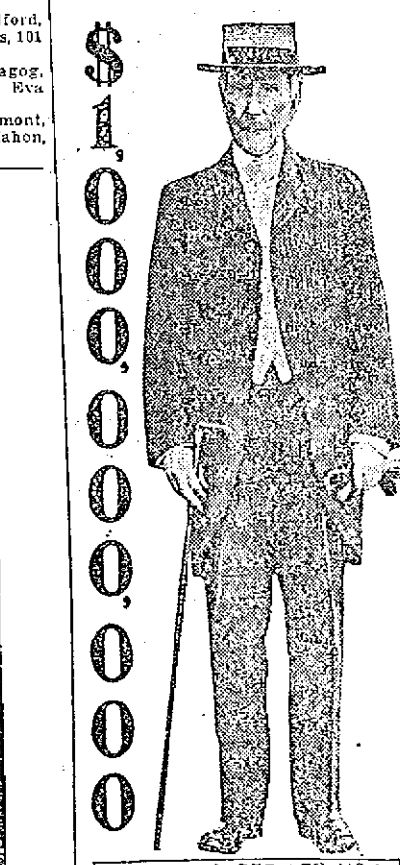

In these words Frank A. Vanderlip of New York, addressing the American Bankers association in convention in Kansas City, Mo., warned his hearers that they should not take too easily the present great wealth of this country that "seems dangerously likely to submerge us in our own prosperity."

"I believe the greatest need of the day—and a need so fundamental as to make other matters inconsequential in comparison—is universal military, industrial and economic preparedness."

He asked for training in military service for all men, greater savings by all classes and greater efficiency in industrial pursuits.

ROCKEFELLER NOW WORTH $1,000,000,000

GREAT WEALTH DUE TO BOOM IN STANDARD OIL STOCKS—HAS MANY OTHER INTERESTS

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER NOW WORTH $1,000,000,000

The boom in Standard Oil stocks on the market and "over the counter" carried prices so far forward that stock of the Standard of New Jersey as it existed before the dissolution was worth more than $2000 a share. The highest price for the stock before the supreme court decree was put into effect five years ago was $750. This makes John D. Rockefeller, head of the company, easily a billionaire.

Mr. Rockefeller's vast interests in various banks and railroads, besides enormous blocks of national, state and municipal bonds. He bought $10,000,000 worth of the Anglo-French loan floated in the fall of 1915. He owns a large part, it is understood, of the stock of the United States Steel corporation. The Rockefeller's father and son, have given away sums estimated at nearly $20,000,000, of which about $8,000,000 has gone to the general education fund; nearly $5,000,000 to the University of Chicago, $1,000,000 to the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research and $1,000,000 to the Rusch Medical college. About $10,000,000 has been contributed to various relief works by the Rockefeller foundation since the war began.

EVERETT MAN HAD SPENT A FORTUNE

M. B. Goddard, of 740 Broadway, Never Received Benefit Until He Took Plant Juice

There is a modern remedy for all stomach, liver and kidney trouble that is magical in its effect, and that is Plant Juice, the great herb stomach remedy. It rectifies the wrong done to the body by getting at the root of the trouble. It feeds to the nerve tendrils vigor and vitality, and they in turn feed the different functional organs of the same strength. It does its work quickly and thoroughly, and makes a permanent cure.

Hundreds have testified to the truth of this statement and daily testimonials are pouring in from people telling of the great benefits they have received from Plant Juice. One of the most recent is that of Mr. M. B. Goddard, who resides at No. 740 Broadway, Everett, who has been a resident for 20 years and is employed by a large manufactory in Boston. He stated:

"For 30 years I have suffered untold agony with cancer of the stomach, liver and kidney trouble that is magical in its effect, and that is Plant Juice, the great herb stomach remedy. It rectifies the wrong done to the body by getting at the root of the trouble. It feeds to the nerve tendrils vigor and vitality, and they in turn feed the different functional organs of the same strength. It does its work quickly and thoroughly, and makes a permanent cure."

The Plant Juice Man is at Dows, the Druggist, in Merrimack Square, where he is daily meeting the local public, and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

Matthew Temperance Institute, Burles Temperance Institute and St. John's Total Abstinence society, 500, and drum corps; Portuguese Fraternity, representing four societies, 600 men and bands, German-American club, 75 men; St. Michael's Holy Name society, 500, and band; Y.M.C.U., 400.

All organizations intending to participate in the parade must notify Chief Marshal Walter R. Jeyes or Secretary Alex. Williams not later than 6 p. m. of Monday, Oct. 9.

OPPOSED TO FARE RAISE
BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Opposition to any raising of elevated fares over five cents and to the proposed zone system were voted in instructions given the legislative committee of the Real Estate Brokers' association of Dorchester, at a dinner in the Quincy house last night. The association favored maintenance of reasonable transfer privileges.

Official indorsement was given the bill to license real estate brokers throughout the state. The association voted unanimously to oppose house bill 1750, to make uniform building laws in Massachusetts.

PRES. WILSON ON HIS WAY TO OMAHA

TO DELIVER FIRST MIDDLE WESTERN SPEECH OF HIS CAMPAIGN TOMORROW NIGHT

ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S Special, Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 4.—President Wilson passed through here early today en route to Omaha for the first middle western speech of his campaign. No prolonged stops were planned before his arrival at Chicago tonight. He will speak in Omaha tomorrow night. The president will make no rear platform speeches on the way to Omaha. He has taken the position that he will not make a stumping tour to aid his campaign. If the president's present plans are carried out his Omaha speech, like those to be delivered later in Indianapolis, Chicago, Cincinnati and New York, will not be partisan, although all undoubtedly will deal with subjects of a political character. Mr. Wilson is making the trip to Chicago on a special train but for the remainder of the journey his private car will be attached to a regular train. In his party are Mrs. Wilson, Secretary Taft and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the White House physician. Mr. Wilson remained at work until late last night replying to correspondence.

MR. J. MEEHAN HIT POST IN AVOIDING A FORD

Driving a Packard touring car into a telephone post in order to avoid striking a Ford containing three women passengers, J. Meehan of Watertown was slightly injured and his machine was damaged at Brown's corner, Billerica, late yesterday. The accident occurred just at the fork of the road. Both cars were proceeding toward Lowell, the Packard trailing the Ford. When the fork was reached the driver of the Ford seemed confused as to which road to take and after apparently deciding to follow the main highway suddenly turned the car down what is known as the Drake road. Mr. Meehan, who had started to enter the Drake road was compelled to hit the Ford on the side of the car into a post and fence. He turned away from the smaller car and crashed into a telephone post and the fence in front of the Brown place. The Ford car was not touched.

"GOLD MEDAL FOR TANLAC"

Says Edlaw D. Barry, a Motorman, After Being Relieved of Stomach, Kidney and Liver Trouble.

Edlaw D. Barry, a motorman living at 14 Lincoln square, Worcester, Mass., made and signed the following interesting statement while talking to Mr. Healy, the Tanlac Man, at William L. Davis Co.'s drug store, Worcester. Mr. Barry said: "I have suffered from stomach trouble and indigestion nearly all my life and felt down and out. I also suffered from liver and kidney trouble and had an awful time in general. "I was in a condition so I could hardly eat anything, and what I would eat did not digest. I felt tired all the time and did not seem to have any ambition. "I bought Tanlac after reading how much good it had done Motorman Bailey, who seemed to have suffered as I did and was relieved after taking it. "My relief through the use of Tanlac has been very gratifying. I am now on my fourth bottle and I think I should have a gold medal for its good work. "I am now feeling fine and my kidney, liver and stomach haven't been in better condition in years.

three consecutive years. Compensation of teachers in the practical arts department—cooking—will remain the same, $2.50 per night, with $3 for the supervisor.

HOTEL MEN HELD

who was on the premises at the time, was notified and it was learned that the youth had been served by George A. Clark, a bartender. The two boys were then sent out. Cross examined by Attorney Hogan.

After all else has failed, try my method of treatment for any disease. NO DRUGS, NO KNIFE.

For appointment, write H. Kellett, Lawrence, Mass. Box 350.

Inspector Cooney said that the incident described above was the only infraction of the law he had ever discovered on the defendants' premises. He said that he had noted many improvements at the Park hotel recently and had found it one of the best conducted establishments in the city.

Officer Dwyer corroborated Inspector Cooney's testimony relative to the visit to the hotel. Joseph H. Parent, 15 years, of 46 Perry lane said that he was served a sandwich and a bottle of beer by Mr. Clark on Sunday afternoon. No questions were asked him, he said, relative to his age. Edouard Bourne, 15 years, of 35 Lakeview avenue went with Parent to the hotel but did not drink. When asked if he bought a sandwich he answered that they were already on the table when they sat down.

George Clark, who has been employed by the Foye brothers for over two years, admitted serving Parent on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 17. He thought the boy was over 21 years so did not make any inquiries. He admitted that he knew no minors should be allowed on the premises but was under the impression that the 15-year-old boy who did not drink was also 21 years old. Witness said that he had received instructions from the hotel proprietors to be sure and not to sell to minors or to intoxicated persons. "Whenever there is a doubt in my mind as to a person's age I ask," he said, "but I had no doubt in this case."

Daniel E. Foye was in another part of the hotel when the sale was made. He did not see the two boys until his attention was called to them by the officers. He and his brother, John J. Foye, said that instructions not to violate any law were given to the employees every Sunday and holiday and sometimes during the week.

Inspector Holland was called and said that he had visited the Park hotel on many occasions but had found nothing that was not all right. He, too, said it was one of the best conducted hotels he has visited.

Judge Enright declined to take jurisdiction in the case. He said that the evidence showed that the sale to the minor was an act contrary to the order of the employers but he thought it was a matter for the superior court.

Druggist Gets Jail Sentence Hercules A. Toupin, one of the proprietors of a drug store at 27 Chester street, was adjudged guilty of illegally keeping a hotel in his place of business and committed to the house of correction for one month and fined $50. The court records showed a previous conviction of a similar offense in 1906. Through his attorney, William A. Hogan, Toupin appealed.

Inspector Cooney and Officer Dwyer visited the defendant's drug store on the same day as they did the Park hotel. Upon entering they showed a search warrant and asked the boy in the store in any liquor were kept there. He answered in the negative but a search revealed one bottle of whiskey, in two different bottles, five pints of gin in one bottle and two quarts of alcohol in another bottle. A quantity of empty half pint bottles was also found. When questioned by the officers, Mr. Toupin alleged to have said that he purchased the bottles from boys and did no business with a junk dealer. He also said that he used the bottles for witch hazel, alcohol, etc. Officer Holland testified that he had investigated and found that the defendant had purchased bottles from a junk dealer, Abraham Barofsky, said that he sold Mr. Toupin bottles at various times but they were all drug bottles. On August 25 he sold him two gross of one-half pint drug bottles.

Mr. Toupin said that he had a partner named Frederick Reed, who resided in Watertown, and that he and Reed had been in Lowell for three weeks. The registration was made out to the H. A. Toupin Co., Frederick Reed, manager.

Relative to the liquor and bottles the defendant said that they were used for compounding purposes only. He showed labels describing preparations that he mixes in his store. Mr. Toupin is not a registered druggist.

His Honor said that he was satisfied that the store was not conducted as a regular pharmacy. He did not believe that Mr. Reed, the traveling man, spent much of his time in taking care of the business and opined that his name was simply a fixture on the registration.

Morris Flourished Knife William Morris, who was arrested Saturday on Thorneike street after he had driven a girl out of a store with a knife, was called on continuance. Judge Enright desired to ascertain more about Morris' past and ordered him held in $300 until Saturday.

Blake Butler was found guilty of neglecting his minor child, Ethel, and was held in $200 until Friday. The child is being reared for 14 years and Butler has given her nothing since the middle of August. He did not seem to realize his obligations today and it was decided to have the state investigate the case. For drunkenness Thomas H. McMahon was committed to three months in jail. Charles Roberts, 20 months and Helen M. Bradley was given a month's sentence. One man was placed on probation and eight first offenders were released.

URGE UNIFORM TRAFFIC LAWS THROUGHOUT U.S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 4.—Uniform traffic laws in all parts of the country have become imperative, and it is up to the American Automobile association to assume the burden of the task in harmonizing the conflicting statutes of the several states, with particular reference to the city regulations. Through its legislative board the national body of motorcar owners is giving renewed attention to the subject, and the problem and the policy to be pursued are thus set forth by Chairman Osborne I. Yellott:

"Each year manufacturers are turning out a proportionately greater number of motor vehicles. Each year these motor vehicles are becoming mechanically more and more perfect, and therefore more used and useful. Each year thousands of miles of improved roads are being added to the country. Each year our cities are adding miles of smooth, paved streets. Each month sees our business houses adding to their equipment of motor trucks, or substituting them for the horses previously used. Each week sees traffic on our roads and streets grow heavier and heavier. Each day sees hundreds of inexperienced persons in every large city added to the already large list of those authorized to operate motor vehicles on our public highways.

"The slow crawl of street traffic of twenty years ago has given place to the mad rush of traffic today. That traffic is daily becoming more and more fraught with danger—danger not only to the pedestrian on the streets, but as well to those who themselves form a part of such vehicular traffic. These conditions imperatively demand that those whose duty it is to do the thinking for the users of our highways, bend every effort toward a satisfactory solution of the traffic problems which have arisen with the growth of the automobile as a vehicle of commerce.

"Much thinking has already been done on this subject; the results are to be found on the statute books of our states and larger cities. But the diversity of rules adopted and in force in different sections of the country shows how far the problem is from being really solved. As chairman of the A. A. A. legislative board I shall be my principal task to gather from all available sources suggestions looking to the framing of a set of uniform traffic regulations which will embody the best thought of the country on this most difficult subject, and present to the members of the association as a step at least in the direction of a solution of the traffic problem."

DEMAND FOR ROADSTERS

The marked increase in the demand for roadsters due chiefly to the appearance of the three and four passenger cars, is the season's most striking development in the automobile industry. A few years ago roadsters made up only a small percentage of the year's total output, and touring car models were bought almost exclusively, even in cases where a roadster might readily have served. The conditions have greatly changed in the past year and the demand for roadsters is constantly assuming larger proportions.

The roadster owes its present popularity to the fact that it has been altered to meet the need of the small party, who found that the touring car was extravagant in its room. The new car brings all the passengers within easy speaking distance without sacrificing any of the comfort of the larger automobile. This feature has attracted particularly the small family and to women who want a small car for touring about town. Women's influence accounts in good part for the way the small party cars have moved up in the automobile world. Their artistry of line and clever design have made them a smart investment for any festive occasion. With the perfect control that comes from a comparatively short wheelbase, the car is tailored to what the women driver wants and needs.

A few years ago the invention of the self starter multiplied the number of women drivers many times, but according to present indications the small party cars will undoubtedly create as many women devotees to motoring as the self starter did in its day.

giving engine too much gas or having spark too far retarded. The gas has not time enough to burn up in the cylinder before the exhaust valve opens. The part of the explosion passes out into the air. Keep spark advanced and throttle down more.

We have a 1916 Hupp that has been run about 4200 miles. The cylinders have a little carbon in them. Could this carbon be taken out by a carbon remover? Would a carbon remover injure the motor?

Please tell me what mileage one should get from a gallon of gas with a five-passenger 1916 Hupp? R.E.M.

Ans.—Some carbon removers have been used to great advantage and do not injure the motor. Try putting half a teaspoonful of kerosene into each cylinder at night while the engine is hot. This softens the carbon and it burns out the next day. Do this once a week.

Mileage depends on many things—carburetor adjustment, condition of roads, quality of gasoline, lubrication, number of passengers carried, etc., that one can give no definite answer.

I have a Buick model M-25, with which I am having trouble with the engine. When I start engine it will run all right but will race and will not throttle down. I have tried to adjust the carburetor, but when I go to cut down the gasoline to slow motor it will stop. In order to keep engine running when machine is not moving I am compelled to constantly open and close the throttle and in doing this the engine will race. I have ground the valves and, examined the manifold and all connections and they seem to be all right. What would you suggest doing to motor? Could one use a 32x3 casing on a Baker split demountable rim which was built for 32x3 casing? H. J.

Ans.—It is evident that the carburetor needs adjusting, but the trouble may have started by the throttle closing too far. Adjust air valve, keeping throttle open as little as possible. Then adjust throttle so that engine slows down but does not stall. If this does not correct trouble screw up air valve and adjust spray nozzle until engine runs best. Then open throttle partly and adjust air valve.

The rim would be too small in diameter and too wide to hold the casing properly.

My carburetor is dripping gasoline all the time. I am told that the float is too heavy. It is a carburetor with cork float. Must I buy a new one or can I get the gasoline out of the old one and make it serviceable again? Please answer as soon as possible. D. R. S.

Ans.—A new float would be better, but the old one can be repaired quite easily. Soak it in denatured alcohol several hours to remove the gasoline, rubbing it off with a piece of waste. Dry out very thoroughly, preferably for 24-hours in a fairly hot place, being careful not to char the cork. Then paint with two coats of shellac, drying carefully each time. Replace and re-adjust. Gasoline should stand one-eighth to one-sixteenth inch below top of spray nozzle. Set adjustment so that gasoline overflows spray nozzle and drips out. Lower float by means of adjustment until gasoline no longer drips. Remember that gasoline level moves with float. Raising float by means of adjustment raises gasoline level and makes it drip. Lowering float lowers gasoline level and stops drip. Also inspect float valve and be sure that this does not leak.

I have a Buick five-passenger car and the valves were not ground for over a year and I had a little trouble in removing them. Could you please tell me what is the best and safest way to remove them? H.

Ans.—Remove the rocker arms (the ones which push valves down). Remove bolts which hold valves in place. If fastening is screwed in there are projections for a special wrench. If such a wrench is missing use a blunt bar against the projections and drive them out. A hammer and chisel will do no lift out readily tap on valve stems until they loosen. Do not tap sideways on the valve stems, as that will bend them.

I have a 1913 touring car which runs perfect, but should the driver give carburetor just a little too much gas at once there is a slight knock, but will take much gas if rolling from 20 miles per hour and stop. Carbon was removed lately and carburetor is Model O Shebler. Do you think carburetor adjustment will remedy this? Retarding of spark will eliminate this slight knock. "D. 42."

Ans.—The symptoms are characteristic of piston slap. This is where pistons and cylinders are badly worn. As the piston comes up on the compression stroke it leans against the left side of the cylinder. As it goes down on the power stroke it leans against the right side. If there is much wear it gives a decided blow as it strikes the right side. For some reason not yet explained this trouble appears at certain speeds and at angles of the wheel. To eliminate the knock it is necessary to rebore the cylinder and fit new pistons.

HELPFUL HINTS

If you use an enamel cover for your tires be sure you put it on right side up. Sometimes we find one put on upside down, which will cause it to hold the rain instead of shedding it.

Keep watch on the spokes of the wheels especially if the car is an old one. If spokes can be shaken tighten the bolts on the spokes of the wheels. If they are still loose consult a wheelwright, as your life may be endangered by the breaking of a wheel.

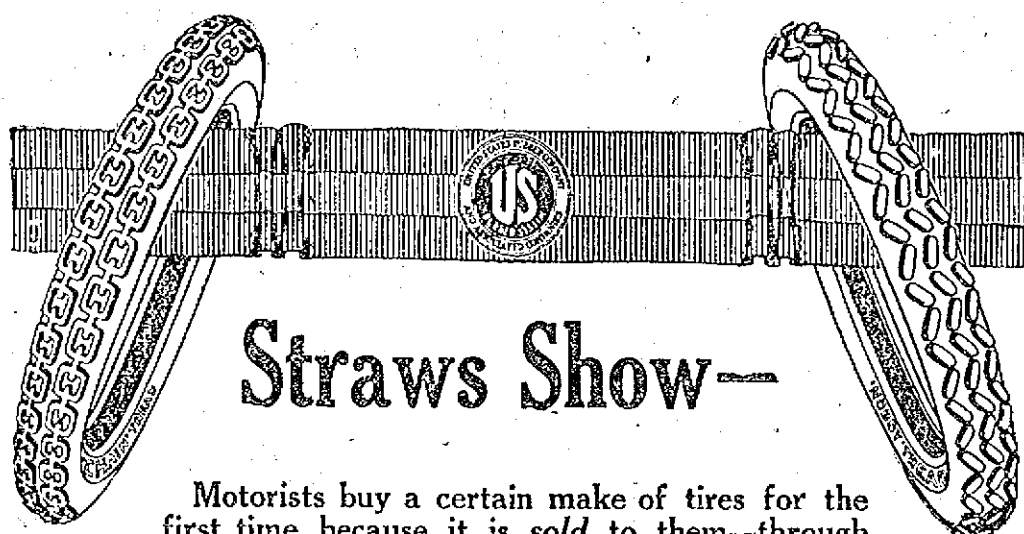

If a gasoline pipe leaks where it is threaded the leak may be stopped by rubbing a soft piece of soap on the threads, as soap is not soluble in gasoline. When packing the stuffing box on the water pump we work some soap grease into the packing, so use soap against gasoline and grease against hot water. Don't reverse them.

Every ignition wire should have a terminal soldered at each end. This insures a firm contact and prevents wires breaking off and so gradually shortening. If terminal breaks off be very careful in fastening wire, as a single strand of wire touching another metal part may ground the current, thus preventing ignition system from working, or even ruining the storage battery.

Occasionally the interrupter becomes loose, and it is important that the beginner should learn to set it. This trouble is shown by the fact that the engine will not start when cranked but gives only one or two explosions. Where an engine has been running properly and the above trouble suddenly develops inspect the interrupter immediately.

Straws Show—

Motorists buy a certain make of tires for the first time because it is sold to them—through advertising, salesmanship, or the good words of satisfied users.

But motorists continue to buy that make of tire only because the first tires have made good—have given satisfactory mileage and service.

Motorists bought United States Tires so consistently that, during the first seven and one-half months of this year, we sold and delivered more tires than during the entire twelve months of last year.

And motorists are continuing to buy United States Tires at the same phenomenal rate.

If straws show which way the wind blows, such phenomenal sales increases certainly show where the best tire service comes from.

Pontoon Bridge Destroyed

Berlin's assertion that the pontoon bridge on which the Rumanians crossed was destroyed is supplemented by Sofia's statement that the bridge was put out of commission "at the Dobrudja side" by Austrian monitors. What dispositions the Rumanians are making to keep up the communications of this force are not known. Bucharest has not alluded to the movements in their official statements.

Bulgarian Success

On their part the Bulgarians apparently are either engaged in frustrating another Rumanian movement to cross the Danube or are attempting an operation of this sort on their own account. They report the occupation by their troops of the island of Makalakat, opposite Vidin, in the extreme northwestern part of Bulgaria, and the dispersal by the Bulgarian artillery of Rumanian forces on the other side of the river.

On Macedonian Front

Reports from Sofia indicate at least a momentary lessening of the entente pressure on the Macedonian front. The artillery continues active, notably along the western end of the line, but the only infantry fighting noted has occurred in the Struma region, where the British are being hotly engaged near Karadjakol, east of the Struma, northwest of Lake Tsalhovo.

Russians Push On

Unofficial despatches from Petrograd report a Russian success in the drive for Lemberg. The Russians have captured the heights south of Brzezany, 50 miles south of Lemberg. It is declared, after forcing a passage of the Zlota Lipa, the Russian artillery then opening fire on the suburbs of this important railroad town. Official reports from Berlin and Vienna have asserted that the Russian attempts to carry and hold these heights failed.

Fighting in Galicia

Today's official statement from Petrograd records no additional progress for the Russians in Volynia or Galicia, but admits of fighting in Galicia that the Austro-German forces are holding their ground.

Russo-Rumanian Offensive

Player Won Match by Making the Final Hole in One for First Time in Golf History

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—What is claimed here today to be the first time in golf history when a player won a match by making the final hole in one is recorded in the contest for the W. J. Jackson trophy at Beverly Country club yesterday.

Playing in the final, Harry B. Shollenberger and William F. Neilson came to the 18th tee all square. The hole is 185 yards and Shollenberger's mashie shot rolled up to the hole and rested against the pin. When the pin was lifted the ball fell in. Neilson held his putt for a two but it did him no good.

THE "COMPETITION" SCARE

If any of the government officials of Europe have time to think of anything but plans for carrying on the war they must be amazed and amused by the cries of some American politicians who profess to fear coming competition of foreign manufacturers. England, France and Germany, the countries that competed with us most strongly in the past, are straining every nerve to keep alive their industries and to conserve their foreign commerce; their workers are for the most part fighting in the trenches; their leading men declare that the United States will be the only power coming out of war conditions able to meet the demands of foreign markets. Yet, republican campaigners say that unless we elect Mr. Hughes, Germany and France and England and all the others will dump their goods on our markets and destroy our prosperity.

To believe this one must be very glib, very partisan and ignorant of real conditions. At the present time every great nation in the old world is begging for loans in this country, and the only manufacturing going on to any extent is the manufacturing of war munitions. England is spending more than $25,000,000 a day, and is sending every man she can spare to the trenches; several of the manufacturing towns and cities of France are in ruins, and all her manhood is fighting; Germany has been forced to take over supplies of food, metals, textiles and every possible commodity, and is trying hard to give her people food and clothing. All over Europe are the wrecks of bridges, railroads, public buildings, villages and factories. In no country on earth except the United States is there real prosperity. All the nations from which the campaign prophets predict fierce competition are exhausted in men and in resources and stagger under a tremendous load of debt. Every one of them is a debtor to the United States and gets deeper into our debt daily.

Where then is there danger of foreign competition? During the last year several business delegations from France, Italy, England and Russia have come to this country to prepare for post-bellum trade. Europe will have to repair the wounds of war and there is only one nation to which the warring nations can turn for supplies. They may not need shells and bullets a year from now but they will need mill machinery, railroad trains and bridges, textiles, food products and everything we may have to offer. To be sure foreign industry has not stopped and is not going to stop, but it is folly to think that we stand in danger of foreign competition.

In conversation with a Lowell man a few days ago a representative of one of the large steel companies gave it as his personal opinion that at the close of the war there should be a great boost in the metal industries. He hinted that with the increased exports in heavier metal products, Lowell and other cities adjacent to shipping centres might have branches of the western metal concerns. He declared that there should be foreign demands for American commodities to more than offset the falling off in actual war orders. This seems more logical than the view that we shall be swamped by foreign manufactures—but we must avoid the extremes of too great diffidence and over-confidence.

But—to face the worst for the sake of argument—supposing that after the war England and France and Germany shall begin to export great quantities of foreign-made goods—should we therefore fail to re-elect Mr. Wilson to the presidency? Is there some mysterious virtue in a tariff made under the direction of Penrose and Smoot and Crane, and is it a safer tariff than one made under the direction of a scientific non-political tariff commission? Or, is it that the republican pleaders for special privilege see in the war a chance to put something over on the American people and to get back the graft they lost when President Wilson went to Washington?

IS BREMEN CAUGHT?

Lord Robert Cecil declared a few days ago that the lull in the submarine warfare of Germany is due not to the demands of a higher humanity but to a shortage in submarines. Yet, Germany has been making the submarines and in gradually increasing number. If the statement of the British authority be true, it would appear that England is catching them as soon as they pop out. Germany must have made provision for the loss of some of them, and if they had sunk a sufficient number of British boats before the end they will have achieved their purpose—but no one will know the real truth and the whole truth until after the war. England hints that she is catching a lot of the undersea boats in her steel nets—but she keeps the facts secret, because it is better tactics to let Germany send them out and wait for their return in vain than to announce their capture and so give a hint to the next commander as to how he might escape.

All of this leads naturally to the puzzle of the Bremen—that mysterious craft that may and may not have sailed, that may and may not have been caught and that may and may not arrive at an American port. It was done once, so why not twice? Ah, but if the Bremen—and it is said that there is a Bremen I, a Bremen II, and a Bremen III—is tied up at a British dock with her cargo confiscated and her crew interned, she cannot come across the Atlantic. The whole story is mystifying but it does not tend to make American business with Germany enthused over the possible sailing schedule. Captain Keenig was the first German commander to sail under the British blockade, and he may be the last. We await the arrival of the Bremen to prove otherwise.

THE LIGHTHOUSE

How little do we of Lowell know about lighthouses, and how little we care about their lore and their tragedies! Sometimes at the summer beach we see their twinkling flashes, or we get their warning beam as we pass on a passenger steamer along the shore, but do we ever think of their true significance or ask what would be the result of their destruction? Along our coasts they read out their messages at sunset, and the great warship as well as the little tramp schooner knows that danger and death lurk near. Last week Boston had a great celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of Boston Light, and the city observed it in a way that seemed incongruous, considering the modest beacon that scarcely attracts passing attention.

Tucked down in a corner of a paper it was, this little story of a tragedy in which a lighthouse figure. A few nights ago the keeper of the light at Crabtree Ledge, Me., was taken sick and went away leaving the assistant keeper in charge. Fearing that he would be lonely his brother, aged 15, left his home at Hancock Point to keep him company. There was a heavy wind and high seas and before he reached his brother he was in distress. The netting keeper tried to rescue him and both were drowned. Not much of a story, perhaps, but such things were the inspirations of Hurlo and Cooper and Longfellow and Kipling.

MOVING PICTURE TITLES

The titles which some moving picture producers tag on to their productions are a sad commentary on the public taste, and as it may seem, the worse the titles are, the greater seems to be the patronage. In some cases a stupid or meaningless picture is given a bad name literally and figuratively and one meets individuals who have gone to the theatre to be shocked and come away disappointed. "Why," they say, "I expected something unconventional and 'twas very tame." If picture producers are deliberately catering to prurient curiosity, there is some ground for the complaint that public morals are degenerating. When Pompeii was dug from the ashes of Vesuvius the world was given a lesson in the evils of moral decadence, because of the pictures and inscriptions found on the walls. What would the future say, should some American city of today be buried and resurrected after a few centuries? After reading the titles of some moving pictures of our time the future would decide that this age must have been pretty raw—but really it is not as bad as the picture titles seem to suggest.

ROUND AND ROUND

When a man starts to figure out costs and price increases he finds himself figuring round and round in a circle and there is no sign which says "This Way Out." For instance, the man who starts to build a house to day must pay more because the lumber gets higher wages, because the railroads get higher freight, the lumberman is paid more, the builder has an increase, because, in short, costs have increased all along the line from the raw product to the final completion of the building. So with the six cent loaf. Bakers claim that during the past two years patent flour has gone up 100 per cent; rye flour 124 per cent; sugar 66 per cent; shortening 60 per cent; milk 40 per cent; salt 14 per cent; wrapping paper 70 per cent. And, last that should not prove convincing they quote the increased cost of delivery; gasoline has gone up 100 per cent and feed 25 per cent. You may kick at the increased cost of a loaf, but in the face of these increases all along the line, can you blame the baker for going up?

SEEN AND HEARD

The man who loves everybody is great but he has some job on his hands.

If you are naturally inquisitive you might ask the life insurance agent how much life insurance he has taken out himself.

It is to be taken for granted, of course, that the street railway company is not advocating the use of jitneys, yet the company is helping out the jitneys by extending the distance between their white poles.

Let Turtle Home

Ered had been permitted to visit a boy friend on the strict condition that he return home not later than five o'clock. He arrived at seven, to find his mother very angry. He insisted, however, that he had not loitered on the way home.

"Do you expect me to believe," demanded the mother, "that it took two hours to walk a quarter of a mile?"

"Yes, mamma," humbled the boy.

"Charlie gave me a mud turtle—and I was afraid to carry it—so I let it home."—Exchange.

Used Too Much Speed

In his Savannah camp Bill Donovan, baseball manager, had a waiter at the hotel by the name of Sutton. Bill had to reproach Sutton more than once for a lack of agility in arriving with the food. Sutton promised to improve. One morning he brought in a consignment of griddle cakes that had gone cold.

"What do you mean," said Bill, "by bringing me in cold cakes?"

"Well, I'll tell you, boss," said Sutton, "I brought those cakes in so fast for you that I guess they hit up with a draft."

Congressmen Talk Some War

Congressman Joseph W. Fordney, Michigan multi-millionaire lumberman, had been making a speech on the floor of the house. In the gallery was a visitor from Fordney's district. This visitor sent in his card and Fordney came to meet him in the corridor. Fordney himself relates the conversation that followed:

"I enjoyed your speech," began the visitor, and Fordney smiled his gratification.

"However, I have a couple of criticisms," added the constituent. "In the first place, you talked too loud. You could have made yourself heard talking only half that loud."

"Still, that's a small matter," insisted Fordney. "What was the other criticism?"

"The other one? Oh, yes. Well, I thought you talked like a blamed fool."

Hearings But Not Listening

In the course of a visit to Nagpur, the capital of the Central Provinces, I heard of an amusing ending to a civil case. It was an appeal case, and on one side was a Mr. Stanyan, an English barrister, and on the other a number of native pleaders. The arguments on both sides had been heard and the case closed for judgment.

Suddenly one of the native pleaders got up and addressed the court once more. Mr. Stanyan suffered for some time, but losing patience, he also stood up and, addressing the court, said:

Your Honor, I would beg with all respect to point out to the court that my learned friend opposite is entirely out of order in addressing the court, and if I may be permitted to say so, the court has no right to be listening to him."

The court, who at that time was writing, put his head over the desk and said: "Mr. Stanyan, it's a great piece of impudence on your part to assume that the court is listening to him."—Stanley's Indian Reminiscences

As She Remembered It

Miss Blanche Johnson, Sunday school teacher of a primary class at Hope Chapel, Nineteenth street and Washington Avenue N. Minneapolis, is wondering whether her efforts toward uplifting humanity are worth while.

In a recent lesson she told the children how Moses had led the Israelites to the land of Canaan, guided through the wilderness at night by a pillar of fire.

The next Sunday she asked the children what the previous lesson was about. An intelligent-appearing little girl raised her hand and answered: "The Israelites were led into the land of Canaan by a caterpillar."—Washington Post.

You Shall Get Over It

You will get over it, never you fret! Nobody's failed to get over it yet. Over the headache and over the care, Over the sorrow and over the light, That last wraps you about with a grim despair—

You will get over it, all right. You will get over it, sure as you're born.

Over all this that has shaken and torn Your heart with its conflict of right and of wrong; You shall get back all the sunshine and morn.

Happiness, freedom and wonder of song, Gladness and beauty and all that is fine—

You shall get over it, never repine.—Selected.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Good Enough

About the only objections some anti-Hughes papers seem to be able to scare up is that the republican candidate wears whiskers.—Portland Express

Pay Your Debts

A general spirit of debt paying will do wonders in building up a community. The merchants will not have to charge so much for their goods if they can avoid bad accounts. They will feel more confidence to go ahead and spend money and make improvements, and the whole town will grow and prosper.—Manchester Mirror.

Dirty Work

It will do the youngsters no harm to get their hands dirty and actually earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. Our present system of American education turns out too many young men and women who are afraid to do any work that is not "genteel." It is hard for them to appreciate that most Americans who have made their mark have at some time or other worked with their hands.—Brockton Times.

A Portrait

Cotone! Roosevelt always has been, and still remains, a peculiarly interesting figure. He is as full of surprises as an egg is of meat. He changes his unchangeable positions with remarkable agility and a fair share of grace. He is one of the best forgetfuls known to our times. Yet few judge him as most men would be judged by the acts he has committed. He is felt to be impetuous and self-deceived, rather than knowingly inconsistent or wickedly ambitious.—Hartford Times.

High Tariffs

And for a while they fooled the farmer and the laborer! Fooled both with the protection bogey! High tariffs mean full dinner pails and big prices.

FOUR WEEKS IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Brown Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"For years I suffered so sometimes it seemed as though I could not stand it any longer. It was all in my lower organs. At times I could hardly walk, for if I stepped on a little stone I would almost faint. One day I did faint and my husband was sent for and the doctor came. I was taken to the hospital and stayed four weeks but when I came home I would faint just the same and had the same pains.

A friend who is a nurse said for me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it that very day for I was suffering a great deal. It has already done me more good than the hospital. To anyone who is suffering as I was my advice is to stop in the first drug-store and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before you go home."—Mrs. W. C. Brown, 1109 Auburn Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

Why not take Mrs. Brown's advice? Such women do not allow their names and photographs to be published for mere notoriety but for the good of other sufferers.

for your crops—that was the spacious bunk the republicans fed the tollers of America. They actually made the men of America who toil with pick, plow or plane think they were well off because they weren't starving to death, thus perous because they had three meals a day and a bed to sleep in, contented because they could find generous souls who would pay them good money for the product of their toil. ## AT ONCE! STOPS STOMACH MISERY AND INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" makes sick, sour, gassy Stomachs feel fine.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, get this down: Pape's Diapepsin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with your stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gas, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT SHAKE HANDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft clasped hands for a moment last night at the Union League club's reception to Charles E. Hughes.

"How do you do?" said Mr. Taft.

"How do you do?" said Mr. Roosevelt.

Each bowed, and Colonel Roosevelt passed on to shake hands with other guests, leaving Mr. Taft to greet those who followed. A few moments later Colonel Roosevelt took his place in the receiving line. He stood between Mr. Hughes and Chauncey M. Depew. Just the other side of Mr. Depew stood Mr. Taft.

Thus, standing in the same receiving line they shook hands with the hundreds of club-members and their guests who filed past during the evening. They did not meet again, however, or exchange any other word than the commonplace greeting.

"We shook hands," Mr. Taft said afterward. "Just like any gentlemen would shake hands."

Colonel Roosevelt declined to comment on the meeting.

He left this country for Australia some time ago and it is believed that he enlisted there.

THE JUDGE AND CHIEF COULDN'T TELL BEER

MALDEN OFFICIALS AGREE THAT AMBER-COLORED FLUID LOOKED LIKE IT, BUT NOT SURE

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Residents of Malden appeared last night to be dominated by a spirit of exultation by the discovery that the city actually was so "dry" that the judge of the district court and the acting chief of police were unable to tell the difference between lager beer, root beer and ginger ale.

All this was discovered yesterday during a court case when the evidence in the case gushed from one of the bottles, foamed its way up the sleeve of the acting chief, and even reached on his nose. But Judge Bruce, shaking his head helplessly, said he couldn't identify the fluid.

And Captain Timothy Foley, acting chief of police, confessed that, despite

THE MEXICAN-AMERICAN JOINT COMMISSION

FURTHER CONSIDERATION OF PLAN OF BORDER CONTROL PROPOSED BY MEXICANS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 4.—Further consideration by the Mexican-American joint commission was given today to the plan of border control proposed by the Mexican members. It was regarded as probable that Gen. Bliss, assistant chief of staff of the United States army, would appear before the American commission in an advisory capacity. That the plan, which involves the withdrawal of Gen. Pershing's forces, would be adopted prior to a definite understanding regarding Gen. Carranza's attitude respecting the reopening of mines and other industries was regarded as improbable.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 4.—Col. Juan Barragan, chief of staff to Gen. Carranza, will accompany Eliseo Arredondo, ambassador designate to the United States on the latter's return to Washington. According to government officials, Col. Barragan merely intends to take a vacation.

High government officials deny a story sent out from El Paso that Carranza was contemplating sending an ultimatum to the United States demanding the withdrawal of Gen. Pershing's troops from Mexico.

TO MAKE JAGLESS BEER

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 4.—A reduction in the amount of alcohol in beer was advocated by speakers at the annual convention of the Master Brewers' association, which ended here yesterday. Hugh S. Fox, secretary of the United States Brewers' association, said the solution of the whole liquor question would be prohibition of the sale of spirituous liquors, and license for the sale of beers and light wines low in alcohol.

George J. Meyer of Buffalo announced two scholarships of $250 each for college students who include in their studies something relating to the brewing of beer. William D. Carthaus of St. Louis was elected president of the association.

his long service in the detection of crime, he couldn't help him out.

The incident occurred in the course of the hearing of the case of Pasquale Migliozzi, 300 Pearl street, Malden, who was in court on a charge of selling liquor. Four bottles of an amber-colored fluid, found in the possession of Migliozzi were offered as evidence of his alleged illegal activity.

Judge Bruce just had decided that the prisoner was guilty, and had imposed a fine of $50, when Thomas P. Riley, counsel for the defense, said:

"I protest, Your Honor, that there has been no attempt to prove that the contents of these bottles are beer."

"Let's see," said the judge.

A cork was extracted and the amber fluid rushed to the face of Captain Foley and up one of his sleeves.

"It may be good beer," had beer, root beer or ginger ale," he remarked.

"I cannot tell."

Then Judge Bruce tried to identify it, but failed. The court decided, however, that it appeared to be beer and that the sentence should stand. The prisoner appealed.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

If you want a first class musical act, one that is fascinating in every way, and that is full of variety, then you should go to Keith's theatre this week, and see that wonderfully fascinating ensemble, but for by Will J. Ward and his Pivo Symphony Piano Girls. Ward himself is a good tenor, who simply revels in modern Irish songs, and they sure are good, while with him is a young woman of pleasing manner, who sings songs of different kinds and who has a tripping dance which is sure to strike hard. All of the young women in this act are uncommonly accomplished. Just applaud when the curtain goes down the first time, and then try it again and again, and you will see what they can do. That entire portion of the program is really the best of it, although every blessed bit of it is good. And while the pianists are the features of the bill, Jack Donahue, one of the good natured stories and the wonderfully versatile feet, runs a close second. Donahue is one of the best eccentric dancers this city has ever known. His steps are new and he seems never to weary. J. C. Nugent and Miss Julie York in "The Meek Hound" have a smart conversational skit. It tells whole little story, and tells it sparklingly, while Mlle. Jeani Berzax with her petit corps will excite favorable comment. The unridable mule and the whirling table are two of the big hits presented. Fritz and Lucy Bruch, cellist and violinist, play some of the most charming of classics and are undoubted favorites, while Somers and Morse in a slap-dash talking song will cause a lot of laughter. Gertie Falls is an attractive aerialist. The 18th chapter of "Gloria's Romance," with Billie Burke presented, is also

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"I have been attending theatres for the past twenty-five years and during that time have seen practically all the biggest successes that have been produced, yet I never saw any play more to see 'Sinners' until I attended the Opera House on Monday evening."

When Mary Horton presented "Sinners" at the Emerson players, the play in the best I have ever seen and the Emerson players presented it in a wonderful manner. This is a statement made by a prominent Lowell business man, in a letter to the management of the Opera House, congratulating the players at the popular playhouse this week. Mouth-to-mouth talk by people who have seen the production has made it the biggest success in years.

On Monday evening, the Opera House is crowded with people who are talking about "Sinners." Owen Davis' remarkable drama which is the attraction offered by the Emerson players at the popular playhouse this week. Mouth-to-mouth talk by people who have seen the production has made it the biggest success in years.

Mrs. Inez Ragan is certainly "winning" great laurels by her portrayal of Mary. This is a character quite unlike any other that she has ever played. Her impersonation of acting that Lowell has seen in a long time. James Hayden as Dr. Horton is a good one. Galloway as Aggie Lynch in "Within the Law" and incidentally, a part which was offered Miss Shirley with the road company of "Sinners" this season. Gladys McLeod does finely as Hilda Newton and Millard Vincent gives a very good account of himself as Horace. Mary Horton, though, is the one to call for very little sympathy. Ross Morison, the popular character woman of the Emerson players, is very good as Mrs. Horton. Ernest East and David Baker do exceptionally well in their characters. The scenic production is complete even to the smallest detail. The play is the finest given in this city in some time.

"Sinners" tells the story of Mary Horton, a young country girl, who goes to the city and fortune in the city of New York because she believes that she cannot succeed as well in a small town. She goes away from her home and into the city, and about starving, she meets Hilda Newton, an old schoolmate. Hilda was a sinner and so were her companions. LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"I have been attending theatres for the past twenty-five years and during that time have seen practically all the biggest successes that have been produced, yet I never saw any play more to see 'Sinners' until I attended the Opera House on Monday evening."

When Mary Horton presented "Sinners" at the Emerson players, the play in the best I have ever seen and the Emerson players presented it in a wonderful manner. This is a statement made by a prominent Lowell business man, in a letter to the management of the Opera House, congratulating the players at the popular playhouse this week. Mouth-to-mouth talk by people who have seen the production has made it the biggest success in years.

On Monday evening, the Opera House is crowded with people who are talking about "Sinners." Owen Davis' remarkable drama which is the attraction offered by the Emerson players at the popular playhouse this week. Mouth-to-mouth talk by people who have seen the production has made it the biggest success in years.

Mrs. Inez Ragan is certainly "winning" great laurels by her portrayal of Mary. This is a character quite unlike any other that she has ever played. Her impersonation of acting that Lowell has seen in a long time. James Hayden as Dr. Horton is a good one. Galloway as Aggie Lynch in "Within the Law" and incidentally, a part which was offered Miss Shirley with the road company of "Sinners" this season. Gladys McLeod does finely as Hilda Newton and Millard Vincent gives a very good account of himself as Horace. Mary Horton, though, is the one to call for very little sympathy. BOXING, GOLF
AND ATHLETICSRED SOX ARE A VETERAN
TEAM

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The American league representatives in the coming world's series will be a veteran combination in every sense of the word both in pennant and series championship play. In age and experience the Boston Americans are veterans who have been tried and proved winners in many a hard fought league and world's series drive. Taking the players on the club roster and without regard to those who will or will not figure in the battles with the National league standard bearers, it will be found that their average age is twenty-seven and a half years and their average years in professional baseball a trifle over seven. So far as their physical statistics are concerned it is shown that they average 174 pounds per man and in height 5 feet 10 2/3 inches.

Strange as it may appear but one player hails from Boston, the remainder of the team coming from all parts of the country to form the championship combination which won the American league pennant after one of the hardest fights in the history of the junior league. The one player who can really call Boston his home is Janvin, a utility infielder, who may fill second base position because of Captain Jack Barry's injured hand. The other men eligible to participate in the title play as members of the Red Sox, and to share in the consequent reward, come from places widely separated, many of them in obscure corners of the land lifted to public notice only by the appearance of their citizens as members of a world's series contending team.

The American league champion Red Sox of 1916 resemble closely the team which won the world's championship last year, but have lost three more of the small remaining group which triumphed over the Giants for the title in 1915. Speaker is gone, Ray Collins, the left-handed pitcher, has passed, and Joe Wood, "smoke-ball" pitcher of other days, is under suspension because of salary differences. New faces have been added, two appearing as possible successors of Speaker at center field, Walker, formerly of the St. Louis Browns, and Shorten, who was called from the Providence International. Another new out-fielder is Walsh, one-time member of the champion Athletics. McNally, a utility infielder, is of potential value largely because of his speedy base-running, while Wyckoff and Jones, pitchers, and Agnew, a catcher, are likely to play only negative parts in the series.

The age, weight and height of each player is shown in the appended tabulation:

BILL CARRIGAN CLASSES
WITH GREAT MANAGERS

PHILADELPHIA SCRIBE SAYS RED SOX PILOT, HANKS WITH MACK, MCGRAW ET AL.

"A large majority of the baseball fans seem to agree that Connie Mack and John McGraw are the greatest managers in the game. Some think George Stallings and Pat Moran have the call, while in St. Louis and Brooklyn they swear by Fiebert Jones and Wilbert Robinson. But one seldom hears Bill Carrigan's name mentioned. But who is more deserving of the praise than the fighting leader of the Red Sox?" says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"How many managers in the game would have the Red Sox where Carrigan has them today?"

"When the Red Sox started on the spring training trip as champions of the world they were not considered a favorite in the American league race. It was the unanimous opinion of baseball men that Carrigan's veterans had commenced to slow down and that they would not be able to stand the pace this season, with Detroit and Chicago strengthened, even with the 1915 team intact."

"Then came the dissension and Speaker's holdout, which necessitated calling the famous singer and leading hitter of the league to Cleveland. When the season opened the Red Sox looked like a minor league aggregation without Speaker. The team work, which always had been a feature of the Red Sox play, was missing, and the whole team appeared to be on the verge of collapse when we saw them play the Mackmen in the opening series of the season."

"To make matters worse for Carrigan, the fans in Boston 'rode' the team because they did not approve of the sale of Speaker, but Carrigan stuck to his task and started to smooth out the rough spots in his machine. He knew that he had wonderful pitchers and went back to the old 'army game' of playing for one run at a time which was in contrast to the old Red Sox system when they had Speaker and his punch.

"Along about the middle of June Carrigan got his team working smoothly and then directed all of his attention to the pitching staff. He had five great pitchers and soon rounded them into perfect condition. As was the pitchers, they would have been spoiled by a less capable manager, but Carrigan handled his staff as well as Moran did in 1915, with the result that the large lead enjoyed by several teams gradually was cut down."

BRITT WINS FROM AL
SHUBERT IN BOSTONCOOGAN AND HARTLEY ALSO IN FAST 12-ROUND BOUT, FORMER GETTING THE DECISION

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Mel Coogan of New York won the decision over Pete Hartley of the same city in one of the 12-round bouts at the Armory A.A. last night. Young Britt of New Bedford bested Al Shubert in the other.

The first bout was a great battle. Coogan and Hartley were both fast and clever and there was a lot of hard punching.

Coogan gave a fine display of cleverness. He did some good jabbing and looking with his left, while Hartley countered well with both hands.

Shubert made a lot of motions, but did not land a great many clean punches, and there was little fear in those he did get over. He did considerable mauling and was wound four times for hitting low. All the clean hitting was done by Britt, who landed on Shubert's jaw a number of times.

The preliminary between Pat Owens of Cambridge and Joe Stanton of Boston was one of the best bouts of the night. In the first round Owens twice floored Stanton. The former was given the decision at the end of the six rounds. Johnny Murray of Roxbury made Jim Gardner of Quincy stop in four rounds.

As Jim Coffey has canceled his match with Battling Levinsky, the club has matched Britt and Shubert for one of the 12-round bouts next Tuesday night.

EAGAN GETS DRAW AT BATH

BATH, Me., Oct. 4.—Joe Eagan of South Boston and Carl Herz of Washington, D. C., fought two six-round bouts to a draw at the Columbia A. C. last night.

Although the managers protested last week against the issuance of a license for last night's exhibition, none appeared to protest. Mayor John A. Small and members of the police force and sheriff's staff were present.

MCGRAW ACCUSES HIS MEN
OF QUITTING TO ROBINSMCGRAW

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The glory of his players were making of themselves that he went to the clubhouse.

It has been known for several days that there has been much talk among the players as to which team would win the National league pennant. Manager McGraw noticed that some of the players had decided views on the subject and tried to put a stop to it.

There has been bad feeling between the New York and Philadelphia clubs since back in 1908 when Coveleskie, the Giant killer, spoiled the Giants' chances to get into the world series. Several times during the past few years there have been outbreaks between the Philadelphia club and the Giants, one of these being an attack on McGraw in 1912, which ended in a riot. The New York manager was struck by Eddie Brennan, one of the Philadelphia pitchers.

Most of those who heard McGraw's comment when he left the field in anger say that he did not accuse his players of dishonesty but of disregarding his signals and that he would not stand for that kind of baseball.

John D. Foster, secretary of the New York club, expressed the opinion that McGraw would finish out the season. Mr. Foster declared it was impossible for the New York club to have deliberately lost the game with Brooklyn yesterday but said that McGraw was thoroughly aroused by the indifference of his men.

Most of those who heard McGraw's comment when he left the field in anger say that he did not accuse his players of dishonesty but of disregarding his signals and that he would not stand for that kind of baseball.

Robinson's Statement
Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn club, said:

"It is ridiculous even to suggest that the New Yorks were not trying to beat us yesterday. It looked to me as if they were trying pretty hard when they scored three runs against us in the first inning. At that time I felt like quitting the bench myself, but I knew my assertions are very un-sportsmanlike. He knows very well the Brooklyns are superior to the New Yorks and have defeated them in a majority of the games this season and when they came here Monday they encountered the best team in the league. It was only natural the best team should win. The New Yorks did play should win. The New Yorks did play and baseball yesterday but they were just out of a long winning streak that Boston crushed Saturday and they had not the stamina to win. They were simply outclassed and did not have to play listlessly so that we could win."

Foster Teller Talks
John K. Tener, president of the National league, said that after the Brooklyns scored four runs in the third inning the New York club "played sloppily and it was unfortunate that it happened in the game that decided the pennant. I know nothing about the players disregarding McGraw's signals but if they did it was a violation of club discipline. They stumbled under the fast pace that made for them a new record in victories in the major leagues."

Pitcher Peritt Denies Charge
W. D. Peritt, the New York pitcher whose action in "winding up" while a man was on first incensed McGraw, said: "If there is any implication that I helped to lose the game you can give it to the lie for me. That game cost $100 I had bet that I would win twenty games. I was out to win."

McGraw Scores Players
"I do not say that my players did not try to win," said the Giant manager, "but they simply refused to obey my orders and disregarded my signals. When Peritt deliberately, and more than once took a wind up, with Brooklyn players on the bases, I was too much for me and I lost my patience and left the bench. I do not like indifferent playing of this kind after the hard work we have had this season. I refused to be connected with it."

This statement by McGraw substantiated suspicions which many New York fans had when they watched the Giants playing last league ball. Manager McGraw first left the bench in the fourth inning, but returned at the beginning of the fifth. He became so disgusted, however, at the exhibition

They stumbled under the fast pace that made for them a new record in victories in the major leagues."

Pitcher Peritt Denies Charge
W. D. Peritt, the New York pitcher whose action in "winding up" while a man was on first incensed McGraw, said: "If there is any implication that I helped to lose the game you can give it to the lie for me. That game cost $100 I had bet that I would win twenty games. I was out to win."

McGraw Scores Players
"I do not say that my players did not try to win," said the Giant manager, "but they simply refused to obey my orders and disregarded my signals. When Peritt deliberately, and more than once took a wind up, with Brooklyn players on the bases, I was too much for me and I lost my patience and left the bench. I do not like indifferent playing of this kind after the hard work we have had this season. I refused to be connected with it."

This statement by McGraw substantiated suspicions which many New York fans had when they watched the Giants playing last league ball. Manager McGraw first left the bench in the fourth inning, but returned at the beginning of the fifth. He became so disgusted, however, at the exhibition

Peter Hart, a yielding by Peter the Great-Baron Lassie, for $2950.

The first race on the card for 2:15 class trotters required five heats before Trusadi won two heats and first money, the first four heats being divided among as many horses. David Look, first in the fourth heat, giving him two, was set back to last by the judges, for interference, but it was announced that further decisions in the race were reserved.

The 2:05 pace was won by Peter Steven after Goldie C. had crawled up and taken the opening heat. The summary:

BROOKLYN AFTER
FOURTH FLAG
IN 26 YEARS

Sixteen years have elapsed since Brooklyn last won a National league pennant. By copping this season the Athletics employed by Colonel Charles Hercules Ebbets will give the City of Churches its fourth flag in 26 consecutive campaigns.

Brooklyn entered the national league in 1890 and brought home the winning first year. Fortune didn't smile on the Dodgers again until 1920 when they grabbed another title. They repeated their triumph in 1920. Only once in the 26 years has the team finished in the cellar. This was in 1905, when they finished seventh in 1912, sixth in 1913, fifth in 1914 and third in 1915.

"I have never believed in a driving or browbeating manager for a ball club. I know such methods have proved successful in some cases. It is often termed miracle work or some such rot. However, I believed in the persuasive, soft-spoken but firm type of leader and always will."

BROOKLYN HAS VETERANS FOR BIG SERIES

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4.—Brooklyn, by defeating the Giants, while the Braves were topping the Philadelphia club in a double-header yesterday, won one of the greatest races in the history of the National league and the privilege of meeting the Boston Red Sox, champions of the American league, in the world's series which opens at Braves Field on Saturday.

The Dodgers found their greatest opposition in the Phillies and the Braves; but the latter team was eliminated from the race when it fell down in the games of Labor day week and in the three games with the Cincinnati Reds. It remained for the Braves to put the quibbles on the Phils, who won the National league pennant last year.

The race for the gonfalon was bitter and the Brooklyn fans, after waiting 16 years, will have a chance to see another championship club representing the annex of New York.

Outcasts in the Lineup

Rube Marquard, Chief Meyers and Fred Merkle were members of the Giants when they were down in defeat to the Blacks and the Red Sox. Jack Coombs, the old Athletic pitcher, played a prominent part in the Mack championship machine of a few years ago. Mike Mowrey saw action in several clubs before joining the Dodgers. Ivan Olson was in the American league before going to the Cincinnati Reds, whence he came to the Dodgers. Larry Cheney is the old Chicago Cub pitcher.

With the two championships settled, the betting arrangements for the series have progressed so far that there will be no hitch by either the Red Sox management or the Brooklyn owners.

After having a corps of workers arranging things at Fenway Park since the American league title was decided, it is reported that the negotiations of the lucky applicants for world's series tickets for the Boston games will be mailed today. The box offices at Fenway Park will be thrown open tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and remain so until 5 o'clock. The same will prevail on Friday, until the 30,000 or more reserved seats have been exhausted.

Business Manager Thomas W. Lannin of the Red Sox announced last night that there will be four ticket offices placed on the Babcock street entrance to the third base stand at Braves Field, where tickets for the games will be sold on the days of the games. This has been done to prevent the congestion which made travel impossible on Gaitney street last year.

These box offices will be opened at 9 o'clock the morning of the games and closed as soon as the big pavilion, which seats over 10,000, is filled. There will be rush seats and first come first served will be the order followed. There will be some 50 cent seats. These will be in the small stand in the centerfield, and there will be room for about 5000 standees in centerfield, where a small fence is being built so the crowd will not encroach on the playing field.

It is figured that 42,000 persons will be cared for. All vehicles will be shut off on Commonwealth avenue at one o'clock on the days of the games. Automobiles will be turned off at Essex street, Cottage Farm, and at the junction of Brighton and Commonwealth avenue. The management has profited by the mistakes made last year, and hope to do everything possible to have the holders of grandstand seats reach their places without difficulty.

The second game will be played in this city on Monday, and the third and fourth games will be played at Ebbets Field next Tuesday and Wednesday. If a fifth game is necessary, it will be played at Braves Field on Thursday, Oct. 12, and if a sixth is needed, it will take place at Ebbets Field on Friday, Oct. 13.

WORLD'S SERIES GAMES AT ROLLAWAY RINK

The world's series, the greatest athletic event in the country, will open in Boston on Saturday, October 7. This is the baseball feature that all fans throughout the world have been looking forward to for months. Now that the contenders have been determined, after one of the closest and most exciting races in the history of the great national game, all are now anxious for the first game. Those who are fortunate, and have the long green, will see the games, but to those who are not lucky enough to get tickets, or who cannot afford to give the time to go back and forth to Boston and want to see the games, a means has been provided by Manager Moore of the Rollaway, Hurd street. He has engaged at considerable expense, the latest and most improved electric score board, which will be operated by a wire direct from the grounds. The game at the Rollaway will start at 2 o'clock and by means of this remarkable invention, every play, just as it occurs on the field will be shown on the board. You can actually see the player throwing the ball to the batter. See the catcher receive the ball. See the batter crack the ball to the outfield. See the runner steal second. Watch the no run scored. See the pitcher holding a runner to the bag, see the squeeze play, and all the other famous inside plays executed. In fact you see the entire game in detail and you see it just as it is actually played, whether at Braves Field, Boston or Ebbets field, Brooklyn.

And the feature of "seeing the game" at the Rollaway is the fact that it costs you but 25 cents, and you are right at home, after the game is over. There are reserved seats which may be secured in advance, by telephoning 8816.

CITY BOWLING LEAGUE BEGINS NEW SEASON

The 1916 bowling season was informally ushered in on local alleys last night when the City league schedule was opened. Four matches were rolled and there was a large gathering of enthusiasts at each alley.

The results were: At Middlesex alley, Newton Mfg. Co. 1583; Jewels, 1485; at Carr's, Kimball System, 1501, Carr's, 1427; at Highland Daylight, White Ways 1559, Highland Daylight 1340; at Boyd's, Crescents 1512, Boyd's 1384.

There are two new teams in this year's league, the Highland Daylights and the Newton Manufacturing Co. Although the Daylights were defeated by the White Ways in the opening match the Newtons came through a winner over the Jewels.

The Newtons also made the highest score of the night with a total of 1683. They made the best single string total, 559. Martel of the same team carried off the best individual honors with a total of 359. Bellisle, of the Highland Daylights, had the highest single string with 138 pins.

EBBETS READY TO SELL BROOKLYN BALL CLUB

SATISFIED WITH WINNING ANOTHER PENNANT—HAS BEEN WITH CLUB 34 YEARS

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4.—After receiving congratulations over Brooklyn's victory last night, President Charles H. Ebbets of the club announced that he was ready to retire from baseball whenever a purchaser for his club appeared "with the price." Ebbets has been connected with the Brooklyn club for 34 years as secretary and president. He declared that as he is 55 years old he has earned a rest and desires to retire. He asserted that the McKeevers interests in the Brooklyn club were for sale. Ebbets said his ambition to win another pennant had been realized and that he was ready to transfer Brooklyn to other hands.

Manager Wilbert Robinson and his players held a celebration over their victory in the clubhouse after the game. The players shook hands with each other and Robinson was forced to make a speech. He thanked his players for their efforts and predicted success in the approaching series against Boston.

BETTING 10 TO 7 ON RED SOX SERIES PLANS

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Distribution of reserved seat tickets for the world's series baseball games in this city between the Brooklyn Nationals and the Boston Americans, which will open on Saturday began today. Each of the 27,000 seats available for reservation was covered by applications of officials of the local club.

Almost immediately after the receipt by mail this morning of the notices of allotments, successful applicants began to appear at the club box offices at Fenway Park. Ticket distribution prior to the date of the opening game will be made from there although the games will be played on Braves Field, the grounds of the local National league club.

To prevent the congestion which interfered with business in the vicinity of Braves Field last year, new arrangements by the police and club officials were made today. Sale of admission seats at $1 and 50 cents each will be made from offices on the side of the grounds opposite the grand stand entrances thus obviating the crush which kept many holders of reserved seats from the game last year. Those new gates will be opened at 9 o'clock on the morning of the games and the gates will be closed as soon as the 15,000 rush seats are filled, according to the plans.

Secretary Riley Collapsed

To complete the arrangements and make possible the playing of the opening games here while the Brooklyn park is being placed in readiness for its first world series the Boston club has had staffs of clerks at work day and night for several days. Secretary Edwin Riley collapsed under the strain and his physician said today that he would be unable to see the team in action in the big games.

Assurances that the Red Sox would be cheered on the foreign field by organized local supporters as the local world series contest began, however, for years was given today by John M. Killen, leader of the "Royal Rooters" of the Brooklyn club had promised an adequate number of tickets for the Boston party which will follow the fortunes of the team throughout the series.

First indications of the betting odds on the series were available today when Brooklyn was definitely placed as the National league team. Professional wagers were offered here at odds to 10 to 7 on Boston. As yet it was said, no Brooklyn money had appeared.

With business activities connected with the approaching series on all sides, the players who have just won the American league title today became further accustomed to the lax of the land at Braves Field. Light batting and fielding practice was the order set by Manager Carrigan.

bons is going to be keen. Miss Constance Vaulain, a new exhibitor, brought over a large string of thoroughbreds from her farm in Rosemont, Penn., and was rewarded by winning four blues in the harness classes, tying the record made by the Thomas F. Murphy of Stoughton won three blues in the same classes.

Louis K. Liggett of Newton, exhibiting here for the first time, won a blue in the harness division, and also one in the saddle classes. Miss Jean C. Lawson of Egypt, also won a blue in the harness class. Charles T. Jones of Boston won the honors in the saddle classes with two blues.

One of the prettiest sights of the show was the exhibition by the nine Belgian roans of Walter Hanley of Providence. Hitched three abreast, the team trotted to the grandstand of thousands. Every horse weighed at least 2000 pounds, and most of them more than 2200 pounds. They were cleverly driven by Billy Wales.

Track Events Hotly Contested

The track events were run off in quick time by the new starter, Dr. F. E. Stone of Burlington, Wis., who made his first appearance at the fair. There were only three races, in addition to several trotting against time. Two of the races went into extra heats, five being required in the 2:35 class trotting. Charles T. Jones won the opening heat, but after that was not a serious contender. Ruth Todd, driven by Chester Lasell, was fourth in the first heat, but won the next two and first money. Toddy McKernon was the other heat winner.

Ed Sandberg's Michigan King won the 2:12 class pacing event after dropping the second heat to Woodcliffe King, driven by Jack Kingsley, who never made a move after the second heat.

Bingen R. from the stable of Fred Pickle, won the 2:25 class, pacing stake. Santa Fe, driven by Fred Todd, after finishing third in the first heat, was contented to trail Pickle in the remaining heats, winning second money.

GAME PRESERVE IS GAME CLUB'S NEXT MOVE

Two very important matters were discussed at the regular meeting of the Lowell fish and game commission last evening. The first had to do with the advisability of securing a large tract of land in the vicinity of Lowell for a game preserve. The farmers about Lowell are very much interested in the Lowell Fish and Game association and in sympathy with its purposes. It is believed that farmers having connecting farms would be willing to sell portions of their farms not under cultivation to the association for a game preserve.

It will be absolutely necessary to have a game preserve later on and the sooner some movement is made in that direction the better. The state would protect the preserve and would also assist in maintaining it. The state is already protecting a small preserve in this vicinity. It comprises the Towers land in Haverhill village and Chelmsford and it has been posted for some time. The great reason for state supervision is to protect the birds, which, when full grown, will radiate from the preserve to all parts of the woods. It was only a few days ago that the President Harris of the Lowell Fish and Game association liberated some young quail in the Bowdoin preserve and they will remain there, undisturbed, until full grown. Then they will leave the preserve and go out to "see the world." This preserve, however, is too small. It may meet present requirements all right, but it will be only a little time before a larger tract of land will be needed.

The other important matter discussed at last night's meeting had to do with the enforcement of the fish and game laws, the general feeling being that even if the game laws were made by game wardens to detect and punish violators of the fish and game laws and that the wardens should have the support and assistance of every member of the association.

Forty New Members

Last night's meeting was a corker. Forty new members were voted in and there were more than 100 members present. The $10 recently donated by the club by Paul Butler will be used to purchase prizes for the winners of the trap shot at the recent outing. An enlarged and framed photograph, showing Game Warden J. A. Peck in the act of liberating pheasants in East Chelmsford was presented to the society and a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Peck. The picture is made the more interesting because of the fact that there was snow on the ground when the birds were released.

Others receiving votes of thanks included the hunting committee which had charge of the recent outing and the owners of automobiles who furnished free transportation.

The following game wardens were among those present at last night's meeting: A. J. Hardy of Lowell, Joseph Wall of Westford and Charles F. Morse of Chelmsford.

RETIREMENT OF GERMAN CHANCELLOR DEMANDED

BERLIN, Oct. 3, via London, Oct. 4.—The campaign against Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg is daily assuming a more tangible form. One of the latest developments is a circular demanding the retirement of the chancellor which has been sent by a vociferous group of his opponents to such members of the reichstag as are considered open to their arguments.

The indictment covers almost everything in the chancellor's conduct of foreign affairs before and during the war. Attacks are made in particular on his attempts to reach an agreement with England, his attitude toward Belgium neutrality and, naturally, his policy in the submarine issue. The only name of international prominence among the signers is that of Ernst Haackel, and the circular is regarded as symptomatic rather than serious.

Another factor which is disturbing the political situation is a breach of the political truce proclaimed at the outset of the war which has been made by the Saxon socialists. This faction has determined to run a candidate for the seat in the reichstag vacated by the death of the conservative, Ernst Eduard Glez. This determination violates the general agreement between the political parties that all vacant seats shall be resigned without contest to the party holding them at the outset of the war.

Meanwhile the chancellor and the reichstag leaders continue to discuss the point at issue behind closed doors. The discussion is being conducted on an even more confidential basis than before. The full committee on ways and means, to which all members of the reichstag are admitted as auditors but in a smaller select committee of party leaders who are especially bound to secrecy. Such reports as leak out say that while the antagonism between the chancellor and his opponents has not disappeared, the discussion is now being conducted on the basis of reason and not of passion. It is believed that there is a good prospect that an agreement will be reached which will avoid the open discussion of issues before the reichstag. The friends of the chancellor appear to be fully satisfied with the situation and declare that he has it well in hand.

BIG RECEPTION TO BISHOP HUGHES IN LOWELL

The Central M. E. church was the scene last night of a public reception to Bishop Edwin H. Hughes and practically every Methodist minister of the city and adjacent territory was present, the reception being tendered by the Methodist churches of this city and surrounding towns.

The exercises opened at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Appleton Grannis, rector of St. Anne's Episcopal church, was the first speaker. He spoke on the great benefits of church co-operation. He deplored conditions here and said that a city like Lowell, with its drunkenness, immorality, bad housing conditions and other things, is a disgrace to our 20th century civilization, and that a preacher should be given full power to speak out in no uncertain manner against them.

Rev. George B. Dean, former pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church in this city, spoke briefly, stating that those present had undoubtedly gathered to hear Bishop Hughes, and the latter was introduced by Rev. Alfred C. Skinner, present pastor of St. Paul's church.

Bishop Hughes spoke on the topic, "The Widening Circle," and said in part:

"The first circle is the family circle. When the center of a man's life is righteousness, then the first circle is represented by his domestic life. No man can be a good father, a good husband, a good citizen, unless he is a good man, and, to be a good man, he must be a clean man. He must be straight in this first circle of his life if he is ever to be a clean mayor or a clean senator. There are no short cuts.

Examples From History

"History is filled with examples of this. Let us cite a few examples. Rome, when she was on the down grade, would not tolerate Mark Antony in his illicit love with Cleopatra, and the old Romans turned Antony away from his position because a man who could not be true to his wife could not be true to his country. "In all that triumph of Ireland, who is on her way to a kind of home rule today, there is seldom, if ever, mentioned the name of Charles Stewart Parnell, the greatest home ruler of all. It is tragic, and to be sadly trusted, that his death came in short order as the leader of liberty-loving Irishmen. We have had the same thing down in Kentucky. A congressman of ability got mixed into an affair of a similar kind, and his constituents rose en masse and refused to return him to congress. And again, in Utah, a congressman a few years ago, with two wives, was denied admission to the floors of congress by his fellow congressmen, and it is to their everlasting credit that they took such action. A man who cannot, and will not, be true to one woman cannot be trusted to be true to the nation. The instinct of the people is a fairly safe guide after all.

Mr. Hughes' next trip is likely to take him as far as Omaha.

Saturday, October 7th, is Quarter Day at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

EDISON FOLLOWERS FIGHT FOR WILSON'S ELECTION

When Thomas A. Edison, a life-long republican, announced to the American people that "I'm for Wilson," he aroused interest and reflection in all sections and among all classes, particularly so in the electrical industry, of which he is the recognized head.

A direct result of Mr. Edison's emphatic declaration that he does "not think it a logical or sensible thing to change to an inexperienced and untried man just for the sake of change, or without much better reasons being given for the change than any I have noticed," was the organization of the Woodrow Wilson National Electrical club by leaders in the industry.

Though but a few weeks old, the Wilson Electrical club has several thousand members, 38 states being represented, republicans and progressives figure largely in the membership, as well as democrats and all are enrolled under the slogan "For the 'Plag' and for Wilson."

A vigorous campaign conducted by mail is bringing hundreds of members daily, while full page advertisements in electrical journals have assisted in enlarging the organization and its scope.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Edison in his statement, "Mr. Hughes, if president, would have found it difficult to decide on the best course for the government to take. His capacity for insight, as we learn from his speeches, is highly developed, but as to his foresight we are not equally well informed."

The Woodrow Wilson National Electrical club has driven home this bit of Edisonian shrewdness in a circular that has been widely copied and commented upon. This pamphlet describes the achievements of the Wilson administration under the caption "Wilson's the Man," in these words:—"The American business man is the wisest in the world; he does not discharge a valued servant, nor swap a fool-proof executive for a man who is out of a job and one hundred per cent, applicant. There are twelve big reasons why no stockholders and directors of this, the greatest, richest, sanest, and most progressive corporation on earth—should keep our wise general manager, Woodrow Wilson, on the job."

"The federal reserve act cured us of financial fits—our national disease of panics."

COURT HOLDS HOTEL MEN FOR SUPERIOR COURT DRUGGIST SENTENCED

Probable cause was found by Judge Enright in police court this forenoon in the case of John J. and Daniel E. Foye, proprietors of the Park hotel, and George A. Clark, a clerk, charged with selling liquor to a minor on the afternoon of Sunday, Sept. 17. Each was ordered to recognize in the sum of $300 to appear in the superior court on the first Monday of September. The younger one was not drinking. The other, William A. Hogan appearing for the defendants. Liquor Inspector Alfred J. Cooney testified that he went to the Park hotel in company with Officer Philip Dwyer about 2 o'clock on the afternoon the sale is alleged to have been made. They entered by the Middle street door and saw two boys seated at a table in a side room. Both had sandwiches before them and one was drinking beer. Officer Dwyer first detected the boys and becoming suspicious of their ages questioned them. He said he was 15 and the other 13. Daniel E. Foye, one of the proprietors. Continued to page three

MOTOR TRUCK SKIDDED IN FRONT OF CAR

John A. Howard of the Howard Express Co. of North Chelmsford had a narrow escape last evening when the auto truck which he was driving along Central street skidded on the tracks in front of an approaching Boston bound car. Mr. Howard was headed toward the postoffice just in front of the car. When about opposite Warren street his machine skidded and turned half way around. It stopped, blocking the tracks directly in front of the car. The motorman applied his reverse and brought the car to a stop just as it came in contact with the auto truck. The step and mud guard on one side of the truck were damaged.

RELATIVES CONTEST WILL OF MISS MORSE

SHE DISPOSED OF ESTATE OF $50,000 TO $50,000 TO FRIENDS—COUSINS IGNORED

A special session of the probate court was held in this city this forenoon with Justice Chamberlain on the bench for the purpose of hearing the evidence on the petition calling for the dissolution of the will of the late Miss Elia E. Morse, who left an estate of between $50,000 and $60,000 to friends. The petition was filed by the heirs-at-law of deceased, two cousins, Lena Caswell and a Mr. Morse, who were ignored in the will.

Miss Morse made what purports to be her last will on June 22, 1915, and was passed away on May 23, 1916. In her will she left $10,000 to Rev. Dr. C. E. Dyer.

CLOSE OF ROPER CASE LAWYERS ARGUED ON EVIDENCE

Arguments for the acquittal and conviction of Albert J. Roper, charged with the murder of his father, were heard at today's session at the court house at East Cambridge. Lawyer Wilson, senior counsel for the defense, started his argument shortly after the opening of the session at 10 o'clock, and at the conclusion of his remarks, Maj. Robert J. Crowley, deputy district attorney, opened his argument. Mr. Wilson spoke in part as follows: "May it please the court, foreman and gentlemen of the jury. There is so much here that it seems beyond our mind to remember, and if I omit anything, do not think that I did it intentionally. Look into this case carefully and see if there is one thing that is certain. Isn't there doubt and uncertainty in every step that the Commonwealth has taken. Doesn't it appear to you that nothing has been proven beyond a reasonable doubt?" "The government took a little over two weeks and the defense occupied a little less than two days. "There has not been one scintilla of proof that Albert J. Roper was not in Boston Wednesday night, March 1. There is nothing to show that Mrs. Bailey did not see that night. There has been nothing to show that he was not at the New Richmond hotel shortly after 11 o'clock that night. "The government was also unable to shake the testimony of little Dorothy Fox. "If you find that Albert J. Roper was in that hotel on Wednesday night, you must find that he is not guilty, for it would be impossible for him to reach that hotel until 11:30 at the latest in case that his father was last seen at ten or fifteen minutes after nine o'clock. "Mr. Wilson then spoke of the principles of law and presumption of motive. "If this were a mere civil case, only a few thousand might be at stake, but a man's life is now at stake. The presumption of evidence in this case is that Albert J. Roper was in that house in Boston—on Roxbury—that night. Human memory is very uncertain and there are many cases of mistaken identity. "Some time between 9:15 and 10 o'clock on the night of Wednesday, March 1, some person struck down Albert Roper, the Tewksbury florist. We do not know whether that person was a thug who knew of the money he carried in his pocket and had seen it on the open market. Who committed that deed the officers have not found. "If Gale said he could not be certain that he saw Roper on Wednesday night how can you be certain? Hardly said he saw him and that it was Albert Roper who got on the car at James street. "I want to call your attention to the uncertainty of that $10 gold piece. Would you find if a man were on trial for stealing the identical $10 gold piece, if that were the only question involved, would you find the defendant guilty? Absolutely the gold piece that Roper gave Mrs. Fox was not the piece that the senior Roper carried in his possession. "Albert J. Roper had $55 in his possession on March 1. He accounts for that. But where is the $300 or $400 that the elder Roper was known to have had in his possession on the night of the murder? "Take Mrs. Fox, for instance. If there is any damaging testimony in this case it is that given by Mrs. Fox; but she has told the truth. She opened her heart and her mouth to the state police and when she was placed on the stand here she told the whole truth. She kept nothing back. "What did Mrs. Roper, the mother, testify? She said that the relation between father and son were the best. Despite the fact that Bert wandered away from the fireside, his thoughts were of home. It would have been better if he had not gone away for by doing so it brought down suspicion on him. "What would you have thought if Bert went over to the depot and got that floral wreath and did away with it? He knew where it came from and instead of destroying it, it was taken into the parlor and the elder Roper and Albert, his son, talked about it. "If he had any fear would he not have destroyed it? "You must find a motive. You have got to find that there was a motive for robbery and premeditation to find him guilty. There has not been one scintilla of proof produced. You have got to find that he and his father were the best of friends. Even though the boy did do something wrong at one time the father went to his rescue. It can never be shown that the father ever scolded his children. You will not send a man to his doom on suspicion. Scores the Police Mr. Wilson at this point referred to the grilling examination that the defendant was put through at the police station on the Thursday and Friday following the murder and said that

The statement continues: "The enemy has fought stubbornly to check our advance and since Sept. 12 seven new divisions have been

PRES. WILSON CHEERED BY BIG CROWDS IN OHIO

ALLIANCE, O., Oct. 4.—President Wilson was enthusiastically greeted by cheering crowds as he passed through the middle west en route to Omaha today. At Salem and Alliance, O., several thousand persons packed the railroad stations and applauded as Mr. Wilson stepped to the rear platform of his private car. "We are for you, Woodrow," shouted one group at Salem. The president smiled broadly and expressed pleasure over the reception. At Salem the stop was so brief that Mr. Wilson could not even shake hands, but at Alliance a stay of more than five minutes was made and the president was kept busy all that time greeting as many people as possible. Although he would not consent to make any campaign speeches enroute to Omaha, the president agreed to appear on the rear platform of his car at several times in Ohio and Indiana and shake hands with the crowds. When the president awoke this morning he found several hundred telegrams from people along his route urging him to at least show himself. He was told he was very popular in Ohio and Indiana and the people wanted to see him. "EIGHT HOUR WILSON" CANTON, O., Oct. 4.—Speaking briefly here President Wilson explained that he was not on a campaign tour. A man in the crowd greeted the president as "eight hour Wilson," and another called out "You're the greatest president since Lincoln." "I am not making any speeches," said the president, "but it is extremely cheering to be greeted in such a way and so unexpectedly. It is the kind of hospitality that makes a man's heart very warm." BIG RECEPTION AT MANSFIELD MANSFIELD, O., Oct. 4.—The largest crowd of the day cheered President Wilson as his train pulled into the station here this afternoon. He shook hands with as many as possible. Soon after noon, when the train entered the station at Canton, the president stepped to the rear platform and taking off his hat, waved it to the crowd. He then shook hands with those persons who crowded closest to the car. An incident of the demonstration at Alliance was the presence in the crowd of a man who made his way to the front and introduced himself as the president's first office boy.

WATERWAYS COMMITTEE CAN'T MAKE PURCHASES QUOTH THE MAYOR

That the committee on waterways has no right to purchase lungmotors was made very plain by Mayor O'Donnell this morning in the course of a conversation having to do with a communication received by the municipal council from the committee. The letter is signed by eleven local physicians who endorse the request of the committee for the purchase by the city of two lungmotors, one to be kept at the police station, the other on the ambulance. The mayor said he would favor the purchase of one lungmotor. "The city government for 1914-15," said His Honor, "purchased a lungmotor which was highly recommended at that time. This lungmotor is still in our possession and, so far as the mechanical parts are concerned, is in perfect order. I don't feel that we should discard it merely to purchase other machines, as is proposed. I will not be adverse to buying one more machine and that a lungmotor." "I understand," said the mayor's informant. Continued to page ten

INQUEST INTO DEATH OF CREW OF ZEPPELIN STORE WAS ROBBED

OFFICIAL EVIDENCE SHOWED THAT 19 BODIES WERE RECOVERED LONDON, Oct. 4.—Official evidence presented at the inquest into the death of the members of the German crew of the Zeppelin which was destroyed near Potter's Bar on the night of Oct. 5, showed that 19 bodies were recovered. The jury's verdict was that death had been caused by injuries received while traveling in a hostile airship which was brought down by the anti-aircraft organization. HIT BY MOTORCYCLE Little Son of Dr. Loughran at St. John's Hospital With a Broken Thigh. Kevin Loughran, aged 4 years, son of Dr. James P. Loughran, was hit by a motorcycle in High street about 5:30 o'clock last evening and is at St. John's hospital with a broken thigh. Kevin was crossing the street when a motorcyclist came along and the boy, it is thought, got in the way of the machine. The boy was taken home and was removed to the hospital. The motorcyclist went to the boy's home and explained the accident to Dr. Loughran. The doctor stated today he did not believe the motorcyclist, whose name he did not know, was to blame though the doctor said he did not know how fast the machine was going at the time.

HONORED BY KING GEORGE

LONDON, Oct. 4.—King George has appointed Second Lieut. Frederick Sorey and Lieut. Alfred de Bath Brandon, both officers of the Royal Flying Corps, to be Companions of the Distinguished Service Order in connection with their successful attacks upon enemy airships. Lieut. Brandon took part in the defensive operations against Zeppelin airships which raided London on the night of April 2 of this year and was reported in despatches to have dropped one of the raiders after mounting to a height of 9000 feet. The name of Lieut. Sorey has not been mentioned in despatches received here regarding British aerial activities.

FAMOUS TROTTER KILLED

PITTSFIELD, Oct. 4.—Krenlin, said to be the sire of more 210 trotters, than any horse in the world, has been killed at the Allen farm. Krenlin was champion trotter in 1892 and had a record of 2:07 1/2. The horse was 29 years old and rather than sell it with the other stock, it was put to death.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Although the epidemic of infantile paralysis is officially at an end as far as the federal medical authorities are concerned, federal inspection of interstate travel having been discontinued, a big increase was reported today in the number of new cases. For the 24 hours ending at 10 a. m. there were 23 as compared with 13 yesterday. The deaths were seven against eight yesterday.

VICTIMS OF PARALYSIS

PITTSFIELD, Oct. 4.—Raymond J. Mansir, 27 years old, died today after a five days' illness with infantile paralysis. Catherine Ross, 3 years old, also died of the disease today.

DOINGS AT CAMP COTTON TOLD BY LOWELL BOY

Following is a letter from Sergt. Haggerty of Camp Cotton, El Paso, Tex., to his friends in Lowell, Mass., dated Sept. 28, 1916.

Another week has passed and still we continue to hike the sandy roads of Texas and all because our friends across the river, Francisco Villa, has "come to life again." However, we have not given up hopes of reaching Boston in time to see one of the world's series games for the war department has ordered Gen. Funston to place 10,000 troops to be returned to their respective states and the Massachusetts boys have been here now longer than any other body of eastern troops and are most likely to be the first picked to return. According to this morning's local papers we are scheduled to go on a 67-mile hike to Fort Selden with the 10th division, beginning next Monday, but that is not official. We would welcome such a hike, though, rather than stay here in camp for another week for the regular routine of camp life has become monotonous. Today, the company went to the rifle range for target practice and the boys were all anxious to try their rifles for this is the first time of us here and there isn't one who wants to go home without having fired a shot, even though it only be at a target.

Our longing for a little adventure shows itself every little while, and our latest prank was anything in particular to do last Sunday, we looked about for new worlds to conquer. In the three months that we have been here we have seen about everything there is to see on this side of the Rio Grande, so our thoughts turned towards the other side of the river, or over in Mexico. Juarez has the name of being the Monte Carlo of America owing to its great gambling places, but during the past few years, owing to the internal troubles it has been its chief source of revenue, the American tourists, and these places were all closed up, but the Carranza government is endeavoring to bring Juarez back again to the position it once held in the sporting world.

Trip to Juarez

About 11 a. m. we left camp in search of some place where we could borrow, rent or steal a suit of "civvies" for we would not be allowed to go over in uniform. We found a small clothing store on El Paso street and after a little wrangling with the proprietor, he consented to let us have an outfit for the sum of $2.50, holding our uniforms for security. Fifteen minutes afterwards we were on our way down El Paso street, all out of step, our hands in our pockets, trying our best to look as unobtrusively as possible. Here we separated into pairs so as not to excite suspicion and took the Mexican car at different street corners.

On the American side of the International bridge the car is stopped by the American officials and a corporal of the guard goes through the car and looks everybody over. He no doubt recognized us, but has probably done the same thing himself and passed the car without saying a word. The right is stopped again on the Mexican side of the bridge and searched by the Mexican guard, but we passed by them also and in about five minutes having any place in particular to go we entered a curio shop near where we got off so as to give us a chance to look around a little. The streets of Juarez are as a general rule all very narrow and the buildings are small one-story structures made of wood or adobe mud. Every other shop is a billiard room or a saloon and they seemed to be about the only places in the whole city that were doing any business. The streets were filled with poor-looking soldiers and everybody seemed to have a questioning look upon his face although afraid to trust his neighbor. The soldiers were a very poorly equipped body of men and appeared to have no discipline whatever. The majority of them were mere youths between the ages of 14 and 20; a great many more were old men in their 50's or 60's. Their uniforms were cheap cotton khaki with brass buttons, a soft felt hat and reminded me of those little play suits for children. Some of the young fellows had shoes that were about four sizes too large for them and I don't see how they were able to march under the weight of all the ammunition they carried. We soon found out that we were not alone, for while we were standing in the store several of our own officers passed by in "civvies" and we came very near getting ourselves and our store into trouble. We walked up the main street toward a park we saw in the distance and imagined that every time we passed a soldier we were caught, for they had a way of looking right through you. On the other side of the park we saw a small church and going into it we found it to be very old, 374 years, and a Mexican guide showed us through the building. The ceiling was all wood and hand-carved. The walls were of adobe and made of a composition of stone and mud. The bell was imported from Spain and there were several bullet holes in it from the recent battles that have been fought. After leaving the church we wandered about from one part of the town to the other, keeping as much as possible to the main streets. At 4 o'clock we went to the bull ring and purchased tickets to the bull fight. This was the principal sport in the city and was always well patronized by the Mexican people, but owing to the extreme poverty brought on by the years of fighting they had to be discontinued but are becoming popular once more and are supported by American money. The price of admission was $1 (Mex.) or 50c (U. S.) for the sunny side of the ring and $2 (Mex.) or $1 (U. S.) for the shady side. The full fight was quite interesting, but it has been very much modified and the bull is not run as he used to be, but is roped by a couple of horsemen when about exhausted and dragged from the ring, to reappear again next week.

After the fight we again wandered a car and passed by the guards once more back into El Paso, where we changed back into our uniforms and returned to camp satisfied that the day was well spent. We had only one narrow escape from being detected and that was while standing in front of the bull ring we were accosted by an American who asked us if we were National Guardsmen. We replied in the affirmative and he asked us what we were doing over on this side of the river. We told him that we had come over to see the sights and he informed us that we were taking quite a risk and for us to get back as soon as we could. We stayed, however, to see the fight. Two more of the boys were held up by a Mexican soldier, who demanded that they give him a dollar or he would have them arrested. They said that they were soldiers, but said they were "tourists" and walked away from him, leaving him in doubt whether to have them arrested or not.

Camp Notes

First call in the morning has been changed from 5.15 to 5.45 now that the days are getting shorter.

The meals are the best ever now that we have got onto the knack of buying right. Every man is allowed 25 cents per day for rations and the army regulations provide that no man can be saved from any appropriation for that purpose so what is left over this month is spent the next on "extras."

The division parade was a sight that the boys will long remember. Thirty-five thousand troops formed in one solid square made a very pretty sight.

And still another pay day on the border.

Friends should not stop writing to the boys until they hear we have left as all mail will be sent after us.

Sergt. Haggerty.

SOME FIRE DON'T'S THAT IT PAYS TO OBSERVE

No matter what line of effort is followed in the clean-up campaign for Fire Prevention day, nothing can excel the good results obtained in the absolute saving of life and property that come from the removal of those causes and conditions which result from lack of cleanliness, carelessness and neglect. Fires in the home are easier to prevent than to extinguish. Special care should be taken in the home to prevent fires. Where women and defenseless children are housed every human consideration demands the utmost vigilance on the part of those responsible for their welfare.

If the following Don'ts, given out at the office of the commissioner of fire protection, at city hall, today, are understood and heeded many a life may be saved and many a home successfully guarded against destruction by fire.

Don't allow rubbish or combustible material to accumulate on your premises, especially in cellars.

Don't store combustible material around stoves or heaters.

Don't keep oil lamps or oil rags where they can ignite spontaneously and cause fire.

Don't block the fire escape. You may need it yourself tonight.

Don't leave everything to landlord. Inspect your own house from cellar to garret.

Don't grow matches, cigar or cigarette stubs out of the window. They may drop on the awning or rubbish and set it on fire.

Don't leave matches within reach of or allow the children to play with matches.

Don't place matches in anything but the boxes with covers attached.

Don't fill a lamp or an oil stove while it is lighted.

Don't use kerosene in lighting fires. Don't neglect to have chimneys cleaned and inspected once a year.

Don't ring an alarm because you see smoke or steam issuing from a window or chimney. It does not necessarily mean that the house is on fire and needless alarms have often caused the death of firemen or horses.

Don't put hot ashes in a wooden receptacle.

Don't hang clothes too near the stove.

Don't set a stove near partition without providing a metal shield and air space.

Don't run your stovepipe through ceilings or partitions without proper collar and seal.

Don't light paper over fire holes.

Don't leave lighted kerosene lamps near inflammable material or under shelves.

Don't clean gloves or clothing with gasoline, benzine or naphtha.

Don't get in the way of fire apparatus going to a fire. Give them all the room there is.

One of the ways in which the householders can participate in the fire prevention campaign and thereby greatly reduce the fire hazard is to carefully examine on Oct. 4, the fire apparatus and chimneys to see if they are in proper condition for winter use.

MATRIMONIAL

Miss Yvonne Montmarquet of the cloak department of the Bon Marche has returned from Ottawa, Ont., where she attended the marriage of her niece, Miss Yvonne Daoust, formerly of this city, who became married to Leonard Curtis, an officer in the Canadian militia. The ceremony was performed in the private chapel of the Sacred Heart school and was attended by several relatives and friends of the young couple, who are held in the highest esteem by their many acquaintances.

The witnesses were the respective fathers of the bride and bridegroom, Charles Daoust and J. Beaulieu. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride and later the couple left on a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N. Y., and upon their return they will make their home in Ottawa.

The bride is a former resident of this city and is the daughter of Charles Daoust, former editor of L'Echo of Lowell and now official translator in the house of parliament at Ottawa. Present at the wedding was a sister of the bride, Miss Charlotte Daoust, who spent the summer in this city as the guest of her aunt, Misses Yvonne and Antoinette Montmarquet of Robert street.

Curtis—Wardman

George Lester Curtis and Miss Clara Daisy Wardman were married at 22 at the home of the bride's parents, 31 West Fifth street, by Rev. Forrester Macdonald of Cambridge and formerly of this city. The best man was Edmund H. Curtis, brother of the bridegroom, of Arlington, while the bridesmaid was Mrs. G. H. Whitney. After Dec. 1 the couple will make their home at 31 West Fifth street.

Claoutre—Champagne

Joseph A. Claoutre and Miss Lillian Champagne were married Oct. 2 at St. Joseph's rectory by Rev. C. A. Paquette, O.M.I. The best man was William H. Claoutre, while the bridesmaid was Miss Rose Champagne, brother of the bridegroom and sister of the bride, respectively.

Brunelle—Lutender

A pretty marriage took place this morning at St. Andrews church, No. Billerica, when Joseph Raymond Brunelle and Miss Margaret Anna Lutender, two prominent young people, were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed by the pastor, Rev. David J. Murphy. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Alice Lutender, while the best man was a brother of the bride, Joseph Albert Lutender. During the mass appropriate hymns were rendered by the choir with Miss Hester at the organ. At the close of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride in Billerica avenue, where a wedding breakfast was served. After an extended honeymoon trip the couple will make their home in Billerica.

PRES. WILSON ON HIS WAY TO OMAHA

TO DELIVER FIRST MIDDLE WESTERN SPEECH OF HIS CAMPAIGN TOMORROW NIGHT

ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S Special, Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 4.—President Wilson passed through here early today en route to Omaha for the first middle western speech of his campaign. No prolonged stops were planned before his arrival at Chicago tonight. He will speak in Omaha tomorrow night. The president will make no rear platform speeches on the way to Omaha. He has taken the position that he will not make a stumping tour to aid his campaign. If the president's present plans are carried out, his Omaha speech, like those to be delivered later in Indianapolis, Chicago, Cincinnati and New York, will not be partisan, although all undoubtedly will deal with subjects of a political character. Mr. Wilson is making the trip to Chicago on a special train but for the remainder of the journey his private car will be attached to a regular train. In his party are Mrs. Wilson, Secretary Tumulty and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the White House physician. Mr. Wilson remained at work until late last night replying to correspondence.

MR. J. MEEHAN HIT POST IN AVOIDING A FORD

Driving a Packard touring car into a telephone post in order to avert striking a Ford containing three women passengers, J. Meehan of Watertown was slightly injured and his machine was damaged at Brown's corner, Billerica, late yesterday. The accident occurred just at the fork of the roads. Both cars were proceeding toward Lowell, the Packard trailing the Ford. When the Ford was reached the driver of the Ford seemed confused as to which road to take and after apparently deciding to follow the main highway suddenly turned the car down what is known as the Drake road. Mr. Meehan, who had started to enter the Drake road, was compelled to hit the Ford on the side or run into a post and fence. He turned away from the smaller car and crashed into a telephone post and the fence in front of the Brown place. The Ford car was not touched.

FOR NEW JAPANESE CABINET
TOKIO, Oct. 4, 5.45 p. m.—The emperor has requested Lieut. Gen. Count Saito Toranichi, former minister of war and also formerly resident general in Korea, to organize a cabinet, in succession to the ministry of Marquis Okuma.

"GOLD MEDAL FOR TANLAC"

Says Edlaw D. Barry, a Motorman, After Being Relieved of Stomach, Kidney and Liver Trouble.

Edlaw D. Barry, a motorman living at 14 Lincoln square, Worcester, Mass., made the following interesting statement while talking to Mr. Healy, the Tanlac Man, at William L. Davis Co.'s drug store, Worcester. Mr. Barry said: "I have suffered from stomach trouble and indigestion nearly all my life and felt down and out. I also suffered from liver and kidney trouble and had an awful time in general. It was in a condition so I could hardly eat anything, and what I would eat did not digest. I felt tired all the time and did not seem to have any ambition. "I bought Tanlac after reading how much good it had done. Motorman Barry, who seemed to have suffered as I did and was relieved after taking it. "My relief through the use of Tanlac has been very gratifying. I am now on my fourth bottle and I think Tanlac should have a gold medal for its good work. "I am now feeling fine and my kidney, liver and stomach haven't been in better condition in years."

three consecutive years. Compensation of teachers in the practical arts department—cooking—will remain the same, $2.50 per night, with $3 for the supervisor.

HOTEL MEN HELD

who was on the premises at the time, was notified and it was learned that the youth had been served by George A. Clark, a bartender. The two boys were then sent out.

Cross examined by Attorney Hogan.

After all else has failed, try my method of treatment for any disease. NO DRUGS, NO KNIFE.

For appointment, write H. Kallatt, Lawrence, Mass., Box 350.

"I now recommend Tanlac because I think it is an excellent remedy and I am now buying a bottle for a cousin of mine who is troubled the same as I was. It gives it great credit as a stomach builder."

Everywhere the best people give testimonials in praise of Tanlac out of gratitude for the relief that Tanlac brings, and because they believe it is their duty to do so.

It is the humanitarian spirit to "help the other fellow" if you can, that is the first thought of many men and women who voluntarily tell what Tanlac has done for them.

Hundreds of thousands have found Tanlac an ideal tonic and strength builder. It reaches those ills of the stomach, kidneys, liver and the common maladies of the day. Tanlac is now being introduced in Lowell at the Lowell Pharmacy, Routhier and Delisle, prop., 632 Merrimack street, where Mr. Brooks, the Tanlac Man, is daily explaining the merits of this wonderful preparation, and can also be obtained in all neighboring cities and towns at the Tanlac Stores.

Inspector Cooney said that the incident described above was the only infraction of the law he had ever discovered on the defendants' premises. He said that he had noted many improvements at the Park hotel recently and had found it one of the best conducted establishments in the city.

Cooney's testimony relative to the visit to the hotel.

Joseph R. Parent, 18 years, of 45 Perry lane said that he was served a sandwich and a bottle of beer by Mr. Clark on Sunday afternoon. No questions were asked him, he said, relative to his age. Edmond Bourne, 15 years, of 25 Lakeview avenue, with Parent to the hotel but did not drink. When asked if he bought a sandwich, he answered that they were already on the table when they sat down.

George Clark, who has been employed by the Foye brothers for over two years, admitted serving Parent on Sunday afternoon. He said he thought the boy was over 21 years of age and did not make any inquiries. He admitted that he knew no minors should be allowed on the premises but was under the impression that the 15-year-old boy who did not drink was also 21 years old. Witness said that he had received instructions from the hotel proprietors to be sure and not to sell to minors or to intoxicated persons. "Whenever there is a doubt in my mind as to a person's age I ask," he said, "but I had no doubt in this case."

Daniel E. Foye was in another part of the hotel when the sale was made. He did not see the two boys until his attention was called to them by the officers. He and his brother, John J. Foye, said that instructions not to violate any law were given to the employees every Sunday and holiday and sometimes during the week.

Inspector Holland was called and said that he had visited the Park hotel on many occasions but had found nothing that was not all right. He, too, said it was one of the best conducted hotels he had visited.

Judge Enright declined to take jurisdiction in the case. He said that the evidence showed that the sale to the minor was an act done by the order of the employers but he thought it was a matter for the superior court.

Druggist Gets Jail Sentence

Hercules A. Toupin, one of the proprietors of a drug store at 37 Cheever street, was adjudged guilty of illegally keeping liquor in the place of business and committed to the house of correction for one month and fined $50. The court records showed a previous conviction of a similar offense in 1906. Through his attorney, William A. Hogan, Toupin appealed.

Inspector Cooney and Officer Dryer visited the defendant's drug store on the same day as they did the Park hotel. Upon entering they showed a search warrant and asked the boy in the store if any liquor were kept there. He answered in the negative but a search revealed one gallon of whiskey, in two different bottles, five pints of gin in one bottle and two quarts of alcohol in another bottle. A quantity of empty half pint bottles was also found. When questioned by the officers, Mr. Toupin alleged to have said that he purchased the bottles from boys and did no business with a junk dealer. He also said that he used the bottles for which he had alcohol, etc. Officer Holland testified that he had investigated and found that the defendant had purchased bottles from a junk dealer. Abraham Barlofski said that he had sold Mr. Toupin bottles at various times but he sold him drug bottles. On August 23 he sold him two gross of one-half pint drug bottles.

Mr. Toupin said that he had a partner named Frederick Reed, who resided in Natick. Reed is a traveling man and comes to Lowell twice a week. The registration was made out to the H. A. Toupin Co., Frederick Reed, manager.

Relative to the liquor and bottles the defendant said that they were used for compounding purposes only. He showed labels describing preparations that he makes in his store. Mr. Toupin is not a registered druggist.

His Honor said that he was satisfied that the store was not conducted as a regular pharmacy. He did not believe that Mr. Reed, the traveling man, spent much of his time in taking care of the business and advised that his name was simply a fixture on the registration.

Morris Flourished Knife
William Morris, who was arrested Saturday on Thursday street after he had driven a girl out of a store with a knife, was called on continuance. Judge Enright desired to ascertain more about Morris' past and ordered him held in $300 until Saturday.

Blake Butler was found guilty of neglecting his minor child, Ethel, and was held in $200 until Friday. The child is being reared by a woman and Butler has given her nothing since the middle of August. He did not seem to realize his obligations today and it was decided to have the state investigate the case.

For want of a good Thomas H. McMahon was committed to three months in jail. Charles Roberts to two months and Helen M. Bradley was given a month's sentence. One man was placed on probation and eight first offenders were released.

ARRIVAL OF NEW ALLEN AUTO ANNOUNCED

1917 MODEL HERE—NEW DEPART-MENT AT RED ARROW GARAGE—
OTHER LOCAL NEWS

The Auburn Motor Car Co. of this city announces the arrival of the new 1917 Allen automobile. They say that this car has a combination of specifications which assure immediate and permanent satisfaction. The new car is known as the "Allen Classic," and classic is the name of all names for this truly distinctive car. The proprietor, George Morrison says everybody says "beautiful" with emphasis when they see this distinctive car. This year it is painted a new color, one quite beautiful and pleasing. Mr. A. E. Broun of the Simpson-Roland Co. has purchased a 1917 Auburn touring car of the latest design. Mr. Paul Gott has ordered a two-passenger Allen roadster. George Myers, the veteran autoist has ordered his second Auburn car, the latest model of four-passenger late-tote roadster.

Another and commendable accomplishment has been adopted by the Red Arrow Garage. This new department which has been added and made complete is that of radiator, lamp and fender repairing. As with all other departments of this successful establishment, this one is under the supervision of experts in the profession. The "service" system has been extended so as to coincide with the rest of this new most complete automobile garage and repair shop. Arthur Bourke promises satisfaction to his patrons at any cost, which is a pretty good idea.

Napoleon Bilodeau has made another step in the business world, that of establishing an auto livery. He has just purchased a Hudson Super-Six motor car of latest design and a seven-passenger model. It has been equipped with the most modern accessories for the convenience of its passengers. It may seem unusual to have a brand new car for auto livery work, but this is Mr. Bilodeau's own idea. He intends to offer the best in the way of service, comfort and safety for all his patrons, and on all his trips, whether they may be weddings and

CADILLAC "EIGHT" WINS HILL CLIMBING TEST

BEAT ANOTHER MULTIPLE CYLIN-DER CAR, COSTING SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS MORE

Geo. R. Dana relates an incident which took place last week in which a type 55, Cadillac "Eight" went against another multiple cylinder car, costing several hundred dollars more than the Cadillac, as follows: The two cars left Boston about 6 o'clock in the evening and called at Mr. Dana's place about 7:30 o'clock bound for a trial of hill climbing ability on Three-Mile hill, at Franconia, N. H. The Cadillac car again called at Mr. Dana's place the following afternoon and while both cars had negotiated the hill in high gear, the Cadillac, in the opinion of the prospect, did the job in much better shape and he therefore placed his order for the Cadillac immediately.

Mr. Dana says that while he has been very skeptical in promising deliveries on the 1917 Cadillacs he now has the assurance that this week he will receive some cars and that after next week deliveries will be made regularly until further notice. This information is indeed most welcome to Mr. Dana and many local people who are interested in the Cadillac.

formal affairs, or whether they are other tours, long or short.

Interesting news for those who spin over the roads may be seen in the announcement of the Boston Auto Supply on Bridge street. They carry several well-known makes of tires on which the reduction prices took effect October 1st. The manager, Joe McGarry, will endeavor to render his usual attention which produces satisfied customers. Therefore, his special announcement may interest them.

The competition in selling automobiles is much keener than it was a few years ago. In the early days of the industry motor car dealers were few and far between. It was not uncommon for half a dozen men to contract for the entire output of a factory. Neither the dealer nor the purchaser knew much about the construction of a car and the word "service" was unknown to the trade.

The result was that after the dealer had sold a car he pocketed his commission and promptly forgot his customer. When the car came back for repairs the owner was informed that it would take weeks or months to secure a new part from the factory.

Today, the whole system of selling motor cars is changed. The successful dealer pays strict attention to his customers' wants. Service has developed into one of the most important factors in the business and the modern up-to-date dealer sees to it that a sufficient stock of parts is carried to enable him to take care of any repairs quickly and economically.

Yes, we may aspire to always ride in automobiles. A prominent motor concern issued the following:

"America has developed such commercial momentum that she is now panic proof. There are just two things that could stagger her—a big war such as European nations are now struggling with, or a wholesale country-wide labor disturbance involving every branch of her industry. Even these would stagger America, commercially, but she would survive and bring about a readjustment."

AUTOMOBILE QUESTION BOX

NOTE—In these columns every Wednesday we will give expert advice to motorists on how to repair and operate their machines. Automobile readers of THE SUN are invited to send in questions or problems they may wish to have answered. Such questions will receive attention in due time. Address all communications: Automobile Editor, Sun, Lowell, Mass. Communications must bear the signature and address of the sender, though not for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Occasionally you advise cutting out the muffler. I am told there is no muffler cut-out on my engine. Please tell me what cut-out looks like and what it is intended for.
A. C.—At present the muffler cut-out is installed on very few cars. The explosions from the engine pass through the muffler so as to stop the noise. This takes away about 3 per cent of the power. The muffler cut-out is simply a large valve in the exhaust pipe under control of the driver. By opening it any loss of power is returned, which is useful in some cases, such as climbing hills. By listening to the exhaust it tells one if engine is missing explosions and helps to locate the trouble. If car speeds up when muffler is cut out we know it is choked and must be removed and cleaned.

I have a dual ignition system on my car. I can start engine by spinning on magneto, but it refuses to start on battery. However, after engine is warmed up I can keep it running on battery by working the starter button. It stops when I stop. How can I locate the trouble, and is it anything serious?

Ans.—The trouble is in the battery circuitbreaker. Remove cover and inspect carefully to see if any parts are loose. Draw a piece of fine emery cloth through the breaker points several times to clean them. See if breaker moves freely. If not, spring is loose, broken, or a drop of oil is needed on pin on which breaker turns. Also test size of gap by means of gauge on the wrench supplied by the manufacturer. If no gauge is handy a piece of metal one-sixty-fourth of an inch may be used.

Which is better for the average driver, an electric horn or one that works by hand pressure? I mean which one will give the least trouble?

Ans.—Each has its advantages and its disadvantages. The electric horn works with a mere touch, but is subject to electrical difficulties. The mechanical horn requires pressure to be applied and may develop mechanical difficulties. So it would seem to be a matter for each one to decide for himself.

Will you kindly tell me through your motor service column what is the mat-sleepers grade without knocking. I've tried it with my spark retarded when it starts to knock, but that doesn't help any. Motor is equipped with a double ignition system—start on batteries, run on high tension magneto. The motor seems to be timed slower on the magneto than on the batteries, as when I switch over on the magneto there is considerable decrease in the speed of the motor with the throttle in the same position. I hardly think the knock could be caused from pre-ignition due to carbon, as the car has only been run ten days since it was overhauled, and I have put about a spoonful of kerosene in each cylinder every night.

The car has a Bosch 4-volt coil and sometimes the motor will start on compression. If I throw the switch on, then off, and on again quickly. All cylinders have good compression, but the carburetor (Shebler model L) will flood and run out about a tablespoonful at times when I stop. The garage men here don't seem to be able to locate the trouble, and, as the motor is getting worse, I would very much appreciate any suggestions you can make that would enable me to have the trouble remedied. There are no loose bearings, as they were all examined today, and couldn't be tightened without making them too tight. The motor runs as smoothly as new when throttled down, spark retarded and running idle. In high gear, if you try to speed up quickly it will either miss or miss and knock until it gathers speed, or sometimes it goes right on and off D. U. D.

Ans.—Apparently you have tried out every cause of a knock, but the magneto setting may be at fault, giving too early a spark. Reset it with a retarded setting and try it out. The fact that the motor slows down when changing over to magneto suggests weak magnets. These should be remagnetized. The flooding of the carburetor after stopping is due to the gasoline in the inlet manifold running out when the suction stops. This occurs on every

URGE UNIFORM TRAFFIC LAWS THROUGHOUT U.S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 4.—Uniform traffic laws in all parts of the country have become imperative, and it is up to the American Automobile association to assume the burden of the task in harmonizing the conflicting statutes of the several states, with particular reference to the city regulations. Through its legislative board the national body of motor car owners is giving renewed attention to the subject, and the problem and the policy to be pursued are thus set forth by Chairman Osborne. "The fact," he says, "is that the automobile is turning out a proportionately greater number of motor vehicles. Each year these motor vehicles are becoming mechanically more and more perfect, and therefore more used and useful. Each year thousands of miles of improved roads are being added to the improved road systems of our country. Each year our cities are adding miles of smooth, paved streets. Each month sees our business houses adding to their equipment of motor trucks, or substituting them for the horses previously used. Each week sees traffic on our roads and streets grow heavier and heavier. Each day sees hundreds of inexperienced persons in every large city added to the already large list of those authorized to operate motor vehicles on our public highways.

"The slow crawl of street traffic of twenty years ago has given place to the mad rush of traffic today. That traffic is daily becoming more and more fraught with danger—danger not only to the pedestrian on the streets, but as well to those who themselves form a part of such vehicular traffic. These conditions imperatively demand that those whose duty it is to do the thinking for the users of our highways, bend every effort toward a satisfactory solution of the traffic problems which have arisen with the growth of the automobile as a vehicle of commerce.

"Much thinking has already been done on this subject; the results are to be found on the statute books of our states and larger cities. But the diversity of rules adopted and in force in different sections of the country shows how far the problems of being really solved. The chairman of the A.A.A. legislative board will be my principal task to gather from all available sources suggestions looking to the framing of a set of uniform traffic regulations which will embody the best thought of the country on this most difficult subject, and present same to the members of the association as a step at least in the direction of a solution of the traffic problem."

DEMAND FOR ROADSTERS

The marked increase in the demand for roadsters, due chiefly to the appearance of the three and four passenger cars, is the season's most striking development in the automobile industry. A few years ago roadsters made up only a small percentage of the year's total output, and the models were bought almost exclusively, even in cases where a roadster might readily have served. The conditions have greatly changed in the past year and the demand for roadsters is constantly assuming larger proportions.

The roadster owes its present popularity to the fact that it has been altered to meet the need of the small party, who found that the touring car was extravagant in its room. The new car brings all the passengers within easy speaking distance without encroaching any of the comfort of the larger automobile. To a certain extent, particularly to the small family and to women who want a small car for touring about town.

Women's influence accounts in good part for the way the small party cars have moved up in the automobile world. Their sense of line and clever design have made them a smart turn-out for any feminine occasion. With the perfect control that comes from a comparatively short wheelbase, the car is tailored to what the woman driver wants and needs.

A few years ago the invention of the self starter multiplied the number of women drivers many times, but according to present indications the small party cars will undoubtedly create as many women devotees to motoring as the self starter did in its day.

giving engine too much gas or having spark too far retarded. The gas has not time enough to burn in the cylinder before the exhaust valve opens so part of the explosion passes out into the air. Keep spark advanced and throttle down more.

We have a 1916 Hupp that has been run about 4200 miles. The cylinders have a little carbon in them. Could this carbon be taken out by a carbon remover? Would a carbon remover injure the motor?

Ans.—Some carbon removers have been found to work very well and do not injure the motor. Try putting half a teaspoonful of kerosene into each cylinder at night while the engine is hot. This softens the carbon and it burns out the next day. Do this once a week.

Mileage depends on many things—carburetor adjustment, condition of roads, quality of gasoline, lubrication, number of passengers carried, etc., that one can give no definite answer.

I have a Buick model M-25, with which I am having trouble with the engine. When I start engine it will run all right but will race and will not throttle down. I have tried to adjust the carburetor, but when I go to cut down the gasoline to slow motor it will stop. In order to keep engine running when machine is not moving, I am compelled to constantly open and close the throttle and in doing this the engine will race. I have ground the valves and examined the manifold and all connections and they seem to be all right. What would you suggest doing to motor? Could one use a 32x3 casing on a Baker split de-mountable rim which was built for 32x3 casing? H. J.

Ans.—It is evident that the carburetor needs adjusting, but the trouble may have started by the throttle closing too far. Adjust air valve, keeping throttle open as little as possible. Then adjust throttle so that engine slows down but does not stall. If this does not correct trouble screw up air valve and adjust spray nozzle until engine runs best. Then open throttle partly and adjust air valve.

The rim would be too small in diameter and too wide to hold the casing properly.

My carburetor is dripping gasoline all the time. I am told the float is too heavy. Is it a carburetor with cork float. Must I buy a new one, or can I get the gasoline out of the old one and make it serviceable again? Please answer as soon as possible.

Ans.—A new float would be better, but the old one can be repaired quite readily. Soak it in denatured alcohol several hours to remove the shellac, rubbing it off with a piece of waste. Dry out very thoroughly, preferably for 24 hours in a fairly hot place, being careful not to char the cork. Then paint with two coats of shellac, drying carefully each time. Replace and re-adjust. Gasoline should stand one-eighth to one-sixteenth inch below top of spray nozzle. Set adjustment so that gasoline overflows spray nozzle and drips out. Lower float by means of adjustment until gasoline no longer drips. Remember that gasoline level moves with float. Raising float by means of adjustment raises gasoline level and makes it drip. Lowering float lowers gasoline level and stops drip. Also inspect float valve and be sure that this does not leak.

I have a Buick five-passenger car and the valves were not ground for over a year and I had a little trouble in running them. Could you please tell me what is the best and safest way to remove them?

Ans.—Remove the rocker arms (the ones which push valves down). Remove bolts which hold valves in place. If fastening is screwed in there, are projections for a special wrench. If such a wrench is missing use a blunt but against the piston and drive with a hammer. If valves and cages do not lift out readily tap on valve stems until they loosen. Do not tap sideways on the valve stems, as that will bend them.

I have a 1913 touring car which runs perfect, but should the driver give carburetor just a little too much gas at once there is a slight knock, but will take much gas if rolling from 20 miles per hour and up. Carbon was removed lately and carburetor is Model O Shalber. Do you think carburetor adjustment will remedy this? Retarding of spark will eliminate this slight knock. "D. L."

Ans.—The symptoms are characteristic of piston slap. This is where pistons and cylinders are badly worn. As the piston comes up on the compression stroke it leans against the left side of the cylinder. As it goes down on the power stroke it leans against the right side. If there is much wear it gives a decided blow as it strikes the right side. For some reason not yet explained this trouble appears at certain speeds and disappears at others. To eliminate the knock it is necessary to rebore the cylinder and fill new pistons.

HELPFUL HINTS

If you use an enamel cover for your tires be sure you put it on right side up. Sometimes we find one put on upside down, which will cause it to hold the rain instead of shedding it.

Keep watch on the spokes of the wheels especially if the car is an old one. If spokes can be shaken or wiggle the bolts on the flanges of the hub. If they are still loose consult a wheelwright, as your life may be endangered by the breaking of a wheel.

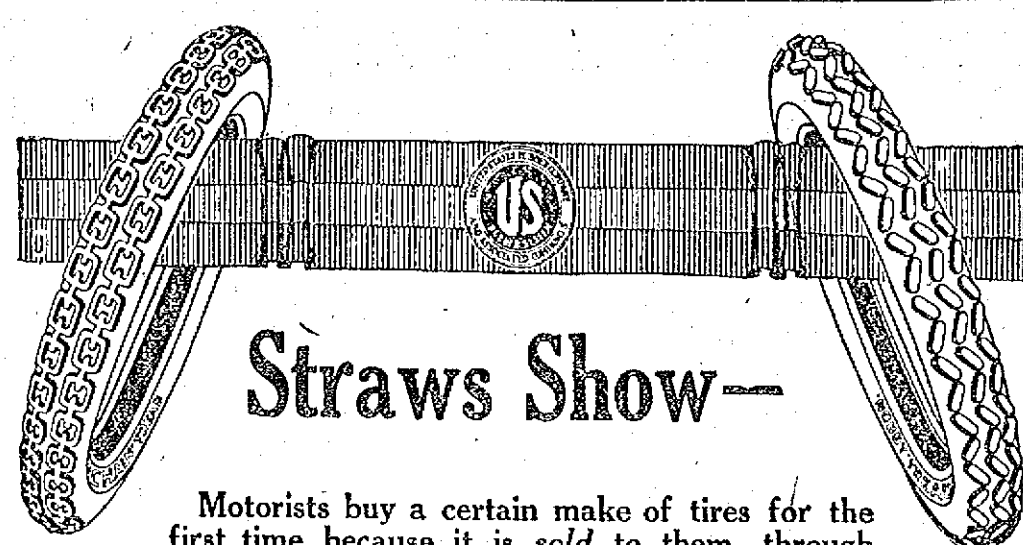

If a gasoline pipe leaks where it is threaded the leak may be stopped by rubbing a soft piece of soap on the threads, as soap is not soluble in gasoline. When packing the stuffing box on the water pump use some soap grease into the packing. So use soap against gasoline and grease against hot water. Don't reverse them.

Every ignition wire should have a terminal soldered at each end. This insures a firm contact and prevents wires breaking off and so gradually shortening. If terminal breaks off be very careful in fastening wire, as a single strand of wire touching another metal part may ground the current, thus preventing ignition system from working, or even ruining the storage battery.

Occasionally the interrupter becomes loose, and it is important that the beginner should learn to set it. This trouble is shown by the fact that the engine will not start when cranked but gives only one or two explosions. Where an engine has been running properly and the above trouble suddenly develops inspect the interrupter immediately.

WARREN CLUB DANCE

The Warren club, which is comprised of many well known young men of this city, will hold its fifth annual social and dance at Asquith hall on Friday evening, Oct. 6. All who attend may feel assured of a good time. The popular Doyle's orchestra will furnish the music.

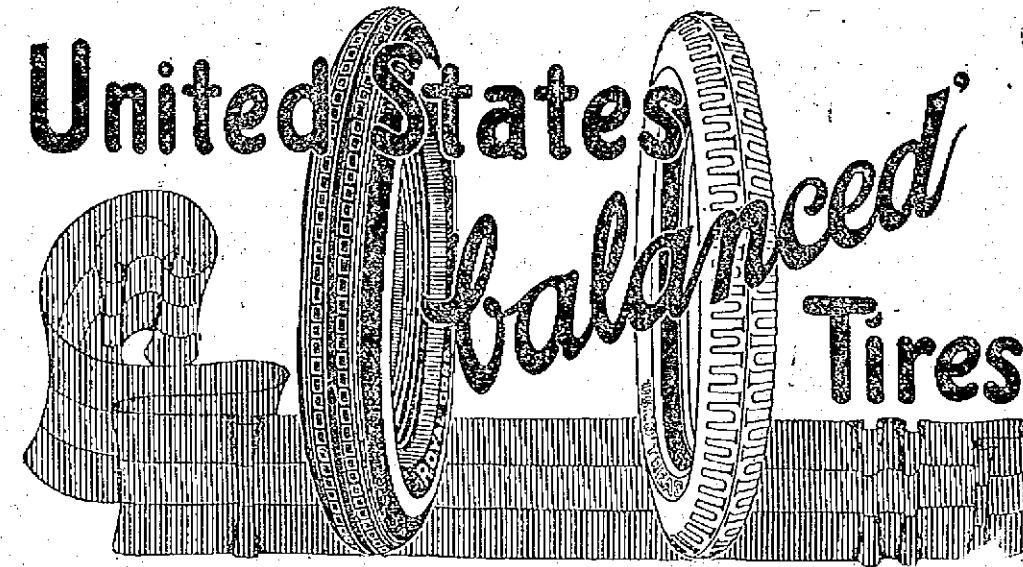

Motorists buy a certain make of tires for the first time because it is sold to them—through advertising, salesmanship, or the good words of satisfied users.

But motorists continue to buy that make of tire only because the first tires have made good—have given satisfactory mileage and service.

Motorists bought United States Tires so consistently that, during the first seven and one-half months of this year, we sold and delivered more tires than during the entire twelve months of last year.

And motorists are continuing to buy United States Tires at the same phenomenal rate.

If straws show which way the wind blows, such phenomenal sales increases certainly show where the best tire service comes from.

SUCCESSES FOR ALLIES

Continued

Into Bulgaria near Rahovo, in an evident effort to outflank the Bulgarian left wing and compel the retreat of Field Marshal von Mackensen from the line south of the Constantinople-Ternavoda railway. Sofia, in its current announcement mentions these forces as comprising "considerable units" but records no contact between them and their Bulgarian foe.

Pontoon Bridge Destroyed

Berlin's assertion that the pontoon bridge on which the Rumanians crossed was destroyed is supplemented by Sofia's statement that the bridge was put out of commission "at the Dobrudja side" by Austrian monitors. What dispositions the Rumanians are making to keep up the communications of this force are not known. Bucharest has not alluded to the movements in their official statements.

Hungarian Successes

On their part the Hungarians apparently are either engaged in frustrating another Rumanian movement to cross the Danube or are attempting an operation of this sort on their own account. They report the occupation by their troops of the island of Makakafat, opposite Vidin, in the extreme northwestern part of Bulgaria, and the dispersal by the Bulgarian artillery of Rumanian forces on the other side of the river.

On Macedonian Front

Reports from Sofia indicate at least a momentary lessening of the entente pressure on the Macedonian front. The artillery continues active, notably along the western end of the line, but the only infantry fighting noted has occurred in the Struma region, where the British are being hotly engaged near Karadjakol, east of the Struma, northwest of Lake Tsalikis.

Russians Push On

Unofficial despatches from Petrograd report a Russian success in the drive for Lemberg. The Russians have captured the heights south of Brzezany, 50 miles south of Lemberg. It is declared, after forcing a passage of the Zlota Lipa, the Russian artillery then opening fire on the suburbs of this important railroad town. Official reports from Berlin and Vienna have asserted that the Russian attempts to carry and hold these heights failed.

Fighting in Galicia

Today's official statement from Petrograd records no additional progress for the Russians in Volhynia or Galicia, but admits of the fighting in Galicia that the Austro-German forces are holding their ground.

Russo-Rumanian Offensive

Regarding the campaign in Dobrudja, the Russian war office announces the continuation of the Russo-Rumanian offensive in the Dobrudja region. The Rumanians' left flank which has been bombarded by Russian gunboats on the Danube near Rakhova, 14 miles south of Tchernavoda.

British Advance

London's account of the operations in Macedonia, northeast of Saloniki declares the British have advanced east of the Struma and held their gains in spite of repeated Bulgarian counterattacks.

SOFIA, REPORTS MANY RUMANIANS HAVE INVADED

BULGARIA
SOFIA, Oct. 3, via London, Oct. 4.—The Rumanians who have crossed the Danube and invaded Bulgaria are described as "considerable units of troops" in an official statement issued by the war office today, which, however, does not report any clash between the Bulgarians and the invaders.

SUCCESS FOR RUSSIANS IN NEW DRIVE ON LEMBERG

LONDON, Oct. 4.—After three days of incessant and furious fighting the Russians are reported to have won a considerable advantage on their new drive on Lemberg from the south and to be threatening the important railroad town of Brzezany, 57 miles southeast of Lemberg. Reuter's Petrograd

WINS GOLF TROPHY

Player Won Match by Making the Final Hole in One for First Time in Golf History

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—What is claimed here today to be the first time in golf history when a player won a match by making the final hole in one is recorded in the contest for the W. J. Jackson trophy at Beverly Country club yesterday.

Playing in the final, Harry R. Shollenberger and William F. Neilson came to the 18th tee at square. The hole is 165 yards and Shollenberger's mashie shot rolled up to the hole and rested against the pin. When the pin was lifted the ball fell in. Neilson holed his putt for a two but it did him no good.

A few persons were killed in street brawls, but the general order maintained was excellent. Admiral William B. Caperton, on the cruiser San Diego, accompanied by two other United States warships, remained in the harbor as a guarantee of peace during the election.

LIFE FOR WIFE MURDERER

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Oscar F. Russ was sentenced to State prison for life by Judge Sisk in the superior criminal court yesterday. Russ was tried for first degree murder of his wife at their home, 178 Centre street, Roxbury, Aug. 23, 1915.

Judge Sisk declared that on the evidence Russ might have been found guilty in the first degree. A motion for a new trial was denied, after it had been argued by Wendell P. Murray for Russ and District Attorney Pelletier for the government.

THE "COMPETITION" SCARE

If any of the government officials of Europe have time to think of anything but plans for carrying on the war they must be amazed and amused by the cries of some American politicians who profess to fear coming competition of foreign manufacturers. England, France and Germany, the countries that contended with us most strongly in the past, are straining every nerve to keep alive their industries and to conserve their foreign commerce; their workers are for the most part fighting in the trenches; their leading men declare that the United States will be the only power coming out of war conditions able to meet the demands of foreign markets. Yet, republican campaigners say that unless we elect Mr. Hughes, Germany and France and England and all the others will dump their goods on our markets and destroy our prosperity.

To believe this one must be very gullible, very partisan and ignorant of real conditions. At the present time every great nation in the old world is begging for loans in this country, and the only manufacturing going on to any extent is the manufacturing of war munitions. England is spending more than $25,000,000 a day, and is sending every man she can spare to the trenches; several of the manufacturing towns and cities of France are in ruins, and all her manhood is fighting; Germany has been forced to take over supplies of food, metals, textiles and every possible commodity, and is trying hard to give her people food and clothing. All over Europe are the wrecks of bridges, railroads, public buildings, villages and factories. In no country on earth except the United States is there real prosperity. All the nations from which the campaign prophets predict fierce competition are exhausted in men and in resources and stagger under a tremendous load of debt. Every one of them is a debtor to the United States and gets deeper into our debt daily.

Where then is there danger of foreign competition? During the last year several business delegations from France, Italy, England and Russia have come to this country to prepare for post-bellum trade. Europe will have to repair the wounds of war and there is only one nation to which the warring nations can turn for supplies. They may not need shells and bullets a year from now but they will need mill machinery, railroad trains and bridges, textiles, food products and everything we may have to offer. To be sure foreign industry has not stopped and is not going to stop, but it is folly to think that we stand in danger of foreign competition.

In conversation with a Lowell man a few days ago a representative of one of the large steel companies gave it as his personal opinion that at the close of the war there should be a great boost in the metal industries. He hinted that with the increased exports in heavier metal products, Lowell and other cities adjacent to shipping centres might have branches of the western metal concerns. He declared that there should be foreign demands for American commodities to more than offset the falling off in actual war orders. This seems more logical than the view that we shall be swamped by foreign manufactures—but we must avoid the extremes of too great diffidence and over-confidence.

But—to face the worst for the sake of argument—supposing that after the war England and France and Germany shall begin to export great quantities of foreign-made goods—should we therefore fail to re-elect Mr. Wilson to the presidency? Is there some mysterious virtue in a tariff made under the direction of Penrose and Smoot and Crane, and is it a safer tariff than one made under the direction of a scientific non-political tariff commission? Or, is it that the republican leaders for special privilege see in the war a chance to put something over on the American people and to get back the graft they lost when President Wilson went to Washington?

IS BREMEN CAUGHT?

Lord Robert Cecil declared a few days ago that the bulk in the submarine warfare of Germany is due not to the demands of a higher humanity but to a shortage in submarines. Yet, Germany has been making the submarines and in gradually increasing number. If the statement of the British authority be true, it would appear that England is catching them as soon as they pop out. Germany must have made provision for the loss of some of them, and if they had sunk a sufficient number of British boats before the end they will have achieved their purpose—but no one will know the real truth and the whole truth until after the war. England hints that she is catching a lot of the undersea boats in her steel nets—but she keeps the facts secret, because it is better tactics to let Germany send them out and wait for their return in vain than to announce their capture and so give a hint to the next commander as to how he might escape.

All of this leads naturally to the puzzle of the Bremen—that mysterious craft that may and may not have been caught and that may and may not arrive at an American port. It was done once, so why not twice? Ah, but if the Bremen—and it is said that there is a Bremen I, a Bremen II, and a Bremen III—is tied up at a British dock with her cargo confiscated and her crew interned, she cannot come across the Atlantic. The whole story is mystifying but it does not tend to make American business with Germany enthused over the possible sailing schedule. Captain Kronig was the first German commander to sail under the British blockade, and he may be the last. We await the arrival of the Bremen to prove otherwise.

THE LIGHTHOUSE

How little do we of Lowell know about lighthouses, and how little we care about their lore and their tragedies! Sometimes at the summer beach we see their twinkling flashes, or we get their warning beam as we pass on a passenger steamer along the shore, but do we ever think of their true significance or ask what would be the result of their destruction? Along our coasts they send out their messages at sunset, and the great warship as well as the little tramp schooner knows that danger and death

lurk near. Last week Boston had a great celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of Boston Light, and the city observed it in a way that seemed incongruous, considering the modest beacon that scarcely attracts passing attention. Tucked down in a corner of a paper it was, this little story of a tragedy in which a lighthouse figure. A few nights ago the keeper of the light at Crabtree Ledge, Me., was taken sick and went away leaving the assistant keeper in charge. Fearing that he would be lonely his brother, aged 18, left his home at Hancock Point to keep him company. There was a heavy wind and high seas and before he reached his brother he was in distress. The acting keeper tried to rescue him and both were drowned. Not much of a story, perhaps, but such things were the inspirations of Hugo and Cooper and Longfellow and Kipling.

MOVING PICTURE TITLES

The titles which some moving picture producers tag on to their productions are a sad commentary on the public taste, and as it may seem, the worse the titles are, the greater seems to be the patronage. In some cases a stupid or meaningless picture is given a bad name literally and figuratively and one meets individuals who have gone to the theatre to be shocked and come away disappointed. "Why," they say, "I expected something unconventional and 'twas very tame." If picture producers are deliberately catering to prurient curiosity, there is some ground for the complaint that public morals are degenerating. When Pompeii was dug from the ashes of Vesuvius the world was given a lesson in the evils of moral decadence, because of the pictures and inscriptions found on the walls. What would the future say, should some American city of today be buried and resurrected after a few centuries? After reading the titles of some moving pictures of our time the future would decide that this age must have been pretty raw—but really it is not as bad as the picture titles seem to suggest.

ROUND AND ROUND

When a man starts to figure out costs and price increases he finds himself figuring round and round a circle and there is no sign which says "This Way Out." For instance, the man who starts to build a house today must pay more because the miner gets higher wages, because the railroad gets higher freight, the lumberman is paid more, the builder has an increase, because, in short, costs have increased all along the line from the raw product to the final completion of the building. So with the six cent loaf, bakers claim that during the past two years patent flour has gone up 100 per cent; rye flour 124 per cent; sugar 66 per cent; shortening 66 per cent; milk 40 per cent; salt 14 per cent; wrapping paper 70 per cent. And, lest that should not prove convincing they quote the increased cost of delivery; gasoline has gone up 100 per cent and feed 25 per cent. You may kick at the increased cost of a loaf, but in the face of these increases all along the line, can you blame the baker for going up?

SEEN AND HEARD

The man who loves everybody is great but he has some job on his hands.

If you are naturally inquisitive you might ask the life insurance agent how much life insurance he has taken out himself.

It is to be taken for granted, of course, that the street railway company is not advocating the use of jitneys, yet the company is helping out the jitneys by extending the distance between its white poles.

Led Turtle Home

Fred had been permitted to visit a boy friend on the strict condition that he return home not later than five o'clock. He arrived at seven, to find his mother very angry. He insisted, however, that he had not loitered on the way home.

"Do you expect me to believe," demanded the mother, "that it took two hours to walk a quarter of a mile?" "Yes, mamma," blubbered the boy. "Charlie gave me a mud turtle—and I was afraid to carry it—so I led it home."—Exchange.

Used Too Much Speed

In his Savannah camp Bill Donovan, baseball manager, had a waiter at the hotel by the name of Sutton. Bill had to reproach Sutton more than once for a lack of agility in arriving with the food. Sutton promised to improve. One morning he brought in a consignment of griddle cakes that had gone cold.

"What do you mean," said Bill, "by bringing me in cold cakes?" "Well, I'll tell you, boss," said Sutton. "I brought those cakes in so fast for you that I guess they hit up with a draft!"

Congressmen Talk Some Way

Congressman Joseph W. Fordney, Michigan multi-millionaire lumberman, had been making a speech on the floor of the house. In the gallery was a visitor from Fordney's district. This visitor sent in his card and Fordney came to meet him in the corridor. Fordney himself relates the conversation that followed:

"I enjoyed your speech," began the visitor, and Fordney smiled his gratification.

"However, I have a couple of criticisms," added the constituent. "In the first place, you talked too loud. You could have made yourself heard talking only half that loud."

"Still, that's a small matter," in-

AT ONCE! STOPS STOMACH MISERY AND INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapiesin" makes sick, sour, gassy stomachs feel fine.

Do some foods you eat hit back—taste good, but work badly; ferment into stubborn lumps and cause a sick, sour, gassy stomach? Now, Mr. or Mrs. Diapiesin does this down: Pape's Diapiesin digests everything, leaving nothing to sour, upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases you most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapiesin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as Pape's Diapiesin comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gas, no belching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

Hearing But Not Listening

In the course of a visit to Nagpur, the capital of the Central Provinces, I heard of an amusing ending to a civil case. It was an appeal case, and on one side was a Mr. Stanyan, an English barrister, and on the other a number of native pleaders. The arguments on both sides had been heard and the case closed for judgment.

Suddenly one of the native pleaders got up and addressed the court once more. Mr. Stanyan suffered for some time, but losing patience, he also stood up and, addressing the court, said:

Your Honor, I would beg with all respect to point out to the court that my learned friend opposite is entirely out of order in addressing the court, and if I may be permitted to say so, the court has no right to be listening to him.

The court who at that time was writing, put his head over the desk and said: "Mr. Stanyan, it's a great piece of impertinence on your part to assume that the court is listening to him."—Stanley's Indian Reminiscences.

As She Remembered It

Miss Blanche Johnson, Sunday school teacher of a primary class at Hope Chapel, Nineteenth street and Washington avenue N., Minneapolis, is wondering whether her efforts toward uplifting humanity are worth while.

In a recent lesson she told the children how Moses had led the Israelites to the land of Canaan, guided through the wilderness at night by a pillar of fire.

The next Sunday she asked the children what the previous lesson was about. An intelligent-looking little girl raised her hand and answered: "The Israelites were led into the land of Canaan by a caterpillar."—Washington Post.

You Shall Get Over It

You will get over it, never you fret. Nobody's failed to get over it yet. Over the headache and over the cold. Over the sorrow and over the blight. That have wrapped you about with a grim despair—You will get over it yet, all right. You will get over it, sure as you're born.

Over all this that has shaken and torn Your heart with its conflict of right and wrong. You shall have back all the sunshine and morn. Happiness, freedom and wonder of song. Gladness and beauty and all that is fine—You shall get over it, never repine.—Selected.

Dirty Work

It will do the youngsters no harm to get their hands dirty and actually earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. Our present system of American education turns out too many young men and women who are afraid to do any work that is not "genteel." It is hard for them to appreciate the fact that Americans who have made their mark have at some time or other worked with their hands.—Brooklyn Times.

A Portrait

Colonel Roosevelt always has been, and still remains, a peculiarly interesting figure. He is as full of surprises as an egg is of meat. He changes his unchangeable positions with remarkable agility and a fair share of grace. He has one of the best memories known to our times. Yet few judge him as most men would be judged by the acts he has committed. He is felt to be impetuous and self-deceived, rather than knowingly inconsistent or wickedly ambitious.—Bartford Times.

High Tariff

And for a while they fooled the farmer and the laborer! Fooled both with the protection bogey! High tariffs mean full dinner pails and big prices

FOUR WEEKS IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Brown Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"For years I suffered so sometimes it seemed as though I could not stand it any longer. It was all in my lower organs. At times I could hardly walk, for I stepped on a little stone I would almost faint. One day I did faint and my husband was sent for and the doctor came. I was taken to the hospital and stayed four weeks but when I came home I would faint just the same and had the same pains.

A friend who is a nurse said for me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it that very day for I was suffering a great deal. It has already done me more good than the hospital. To anyone who is suffering as I was my advice is to stop in the first drug-store and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before you go home."—Mrs. W. C. BROWN, 1109 Auburn Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

Why not take Mrs. Brown's advice? Such women do not allow their names and photographs to be published for mere notoriety but for the good of other sufferers. It

ALL MEN COMRADES IN THE TRENCHES

FRENCH PRIESTS DO MANY KINDNESSES FOR SOLDIERS—STAVE TROOPS

FRENCH PRIEST SHAVING A SOLDIER

The trenches of Europe, filled with men who realize every moment of the day that their lives are at stake, have brought about a closer brotherhood of man than anything else for generations. The men come to depend on each other to a marked degree, and the willingness to help and aid is always apparent. The priest doing little kindnesses for a soldier is by no means infrequent at the front. The one shown is using a safety razor to shave a French comrade of the trenches.

PARK BOARD PLANS THE DEVELOPMENT OF PARKS

FIVE YEARS' WORK LAID OUT BY COMMISSION—BOARD HOPES TO OBTAIN BUDGET OF $50,000

At a meeting of the park board held last evening the park committee was instructed to draw up for the approval of the board a tentative plan to cover the next five years for park improvement and expansion, showing in reasonable detail what the parks could be made if the commission could be guaranteed $50,000 for a five-year period.

What was chiefly discussed at the meeting was the report of the park committee with special reference to some proposed development at Shepley park and a scheme for beautifying Lucy Lawton park. The park board has also decided to request the municipal council to take some definite steps relative to the work of filling in and improving the Dunmer street extension in order that plans may be made for the central parkway development there as soon as possible, assuming that the council approves of this parkway method of treatment. The river bank parkway at the Pawtucketville end of the Pawtucket bridge as suggested by Mayor O'Donnell is another of the developments in which the park board will interest itself. A parkway in First street to complete the new state highway is also proposed.

BISHOP YEATMAN-BIGGS TO ATTEND SESSION IN ST. LOUIS ON OCTOBER 11

BISHOP YEATMAN-BIGGS

The right reverend bishop of Worcester, England, Dr. Huyshe Wolcott Yeatman-Biggs, is now in this country with Bishop Montgomery to represent the Church of England at the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church in St. Louis on Oct. 11. The bishop is a widower and has two sons fighting in the war. One is an army officer and the other a lieutenant in the navy attached to a machine gun brigade lent to the Russians to fight on the eastern frontier.

Even with our prices so very much less, it takes an unusual Fall showing to win men accustomed to paying high prices to the tailor.

At any rate, custom tailors' customers are flocking our way this Fall.

It is the unusual they seek—and we have it.

A great variety of foreign fabrics with the best of domestic.

Exclusive novelties to be had nowhere else—not even in local merchant tailor shops.

If you compare quality and workmanship of our Rogers-Peel and "Society Brand" Clothes with any you've ever had made to order, you'll be surprised to learn how good—really good ready-for-service clothing is.

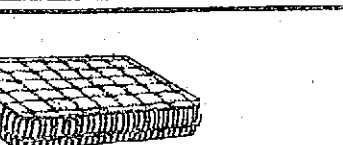

Of course style and fit you see for yourself before you buy.

BROOKLYN HAS VETERANS FOR BIG SERIES

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4.—Brooklyn, by defeating the Giants, while the Braves were topping the Philadelphia club in a double-header yesterday, won one of the greatest races in the history of the National league, and the privilege of meeting the Boston Red Sox, champions of the American league, in the world's series which opens at Braves Field on Saturday.

The Dodgers found their greatest opposition in the Phillies and the Braves; but the latter team was eliminated from the race when it fell down in the games of Labor day week and in the three games with the Cincinnati Reds. It remained for the Braves to put the quietus on the Phils, who won the National league pennant last year.

The race for the gounalon was bitter and the Brooklyn fans, after waiting 16 years, will have a chance to see another championship club representing the annals of New York.

Outcasts in the Lineup

Rube Marquard, Chief Meyers and Fred Merkle were members of the Giants when they went down. In fact to the Giants and the Red Sox, Jack Coombs, the old Athletic pitcher, played a prominent part in the Mack championship machine of a few years ago. Mike Morrey saw action in several clubs before joining the Dodgers. Ivan Olson was in the American league before going to the Cincinnati Reds, whence he came to the Dodgers. Larry Cheney is the old Chicago Cub pitcher.

With the two championships settled, the perfecting of arrangements for the caring for the crowds has progressed so far that there will be no hitch by either the Red Sox management or the Brooklyn owners.

After having a corps of workers arranging things at Fenway Park since the American league title was decided, it is reported that the notifications of the lucky applicants for world's series tickets for the Boston games will be mailed today. The box offices at Fenway Park will be thrown open tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and remain so until 6 o'clock. The same will prevail on Friday, until the 30,000 or more reserved seats have been exhausted.

Business Manager Thomas W. Lannin of the Red Sox announced last night that there will be four ticket offices placed on the Babcock street entrance to the third base stand at Braves Field, where tickets for the $1 seats will be sold on the days of the games. This has been done to prevent the congestion which made travel impossible on Claffey street last year.

These box offices will be opened at 9 o'clock the morning of the games and closed as soon as the big pavilion, which seats over 10,000, is filled.

There will be rush seats and first come first served will be the order followed. There will be some 50 cent seats. These will be in the small stand in the centerfield, and there will be room for about 5000 standees in centerfield, where a small fence is being built so the crowd will not encroach on the playing field.

It is figured that 42,000 persons will be cared for. All vehicles will be shut off on Commonwealth avenue at one o'clock on the days of the games. Automobiles will be turned off at Essex street, Cottage Farm, and at the junction of Brighton and Commonwealth avenue. The management has profited by the mistakes made last year, and hope to do everything possible to have the holders of grandstand seats reach their places without difficulty.

The second game will be played in this city on Monday, and the third and fourth games will be played at Ebbets Field next Tuesday and Wednesday. If a fifth game is necessary, it will be played at Braves Field on Thursday, Oct. 12, and if a sixth is needed, it will take place at Ebbets Field on Friday, Oct. 13.

WORLD'S SERIES GAMES AT ROLLAWAY RINK

The world's series, the greatest athletic event in the country, will open in Boston on Saturday, October 7. This is the baseball feature that all fans throughout the world have been looking forward to for months. Now that the contenders have been determined, after one of the closest and most exciting races in the history of the great national game, all are now anxious for the first game.

These who are fortunate, and have the long green, will see the games, but to those who are not lucky enough to get tickets, or who cannot afford to give the time to go back and forth to Boston and want to see the games, a means has been provided by Manager Moore of the Rollaway, Third street. He has engaged at considerable expense, the latest and most improved electric score board, which will be operated by a wire direct from the grounds. The game at the Rollaway will start at 2 o'clock, and by means of this remarkable invention, every play, just as it occurs on the field will be shown on the board. You can actually see the player throwing the ball to the batter. See the catcher receive the ball. See the batter crack the ball to the outfield. See the runner steal second. Watch the runs scored. See the pitcher holding a runner to the base. See the squeeze play, and all the other famous inside plays executed. In fact you see the entire game in detail and you see it just as it is actually played, whether at Braves Field, Boston or Ebbets field, Brooklyn.

And the feature of "seeing the game" at the Rollaway is the fact that it costs you but 25 cents, and you are right at home, after the game is over. There are reserved seats which may be secured in advance, by telephoning 8815.

CITY BOWLING LEAGUE BEGINS NEW SEASON

The 1916 bowling season was informally ushered in on local alleys last night when the City league schedule was opened. Four matches were rolled and there was a large gathering of enthusiasts at each alley.

The results were: At Middlesex alleys, Newton Mfg. Co. 1533; Jewels, 1485; at Carr's, Kimball System, 1501; Carr's, 1427; at Highland Daylight, White Ways 1563, Highland Daylight 1399; at Boyd's, Crescents 1542, Boyd's 1581.

There are two new teams in this year's league, the Highland Daylights and the Newton Manufacturing Co. Although the Daylights were defeated by the White Ways in the opening match the Newtons came through a winner over the Jewels.

The Newtons also made the highest score of the night with a total of 1583. They made the best single string total, 559. Martel of the same team carried off the best individual honors with a total of 369. Bellisle, of the Highland Daylights, had the highest single string with 138 pins.

EBBETS READY TO SELL BROOKLYN BALL CLUB

SATISFIED WITH WINNING ANOTHER PENNANT - HAS BEEN WITH CLUB 34 YEARS

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4.—After receiving congratulations over Brooklyn's victory last night, President Charles H. Ebbets of the club announced that he was ready to retire from baseball whenever a purchaser for his club appeared "with the price."

Ebbets has been connected with the Brooklyn club for 34 years as secretary and president. He declared that as he is 56 years old he has earned a rest and desires to retire. He asserted that the McKeevers interests in the Brooklyn club also were for sale. Ebbets said his ambition to win another pennant had been realized and that he was ready to transfer Brooklyn to other hands.

Manager Wilbert Robinson and his players held a celebration over their victory in the clubhouse after the game. All the players shook hands with each other and Robinson was forced to make a speech. He thanked his players for their efforts and predicted success in the approaching series against Boston.

With business activities connected with the approaching series on all sides, the players who have just won the American league title today became further accustomed to the lay of the land at Braves Field. Light batting and fielding practice was the order set by Manager Carrigan.

bon's is going to be keen. Miss Constance Vauclain, a new exhibitor, brought over a large string of thoroughbreds from her farm in Rosemont, Penn., and was rewarded by winning four blues in the harness classes. The record made by the Thomas F. Murphy of Stoughton, Penn. was 2:15.4. Louis K. Lippett of Newton, exhibiting here for the first time, won a blue in the harness division, and also one in the saddle class. Miss Jones of Lowell, also won a blue in the harness class. Charles H. Jones of Boston won the honors in the saddle classes with two blues.

One of the prettiest sights of the show was the exhibition by the nine Belgian rears of Walter Hanley of Providence. Hitchcock, the champion, trotted the track to the applause of thousands. Every horse weighed at least 2000 pounds, and most of them more than 2200 pounds. They were cleverly driven by Billy Wales.

Track Events Hotly Contested
The track events were run off in quick time by the new starter, Dr. F. E. Stone of Burlington, Wis., who made his first appearance at the fair. There were only three races, in addition to several trotting against time. Two of the races went into extra heats, five being required in the 2:15 class. Trotting, Monte Volo won the opening heat, but after that was not a serious contender. Ruth Todd, driven by Chester Lasell, was fourth in the first heat, but won the next two and first money. Teddy McKerron was the other heat winner.

Ed Sweeney's Michigan King won the 2:12 class, pacing event, after dropping the second heat to Woodcliffe King, driven by Jack Kingsley, who never made a move after the second heat.

Bingen R. from the stable of Fred Pickle, won the 2:25 class, racing sulks in straight heats. Crescent Todd, after finishing third in the first heat, was contented to trail Pickle in the remaining heats, winning second money. The summary:

BETTING 10 TO 7 ON RED SOX SERIES PLANS

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—Distribution of reserved seat tickets for the world's series baseball games in this city between the Brooklyn Nationals and the Boston Americans, which will open on Saturday began today. Each of the 27,000 seats available for reservation was covered by applications officials of the local club side.

Almost immediately after the receipt by mail this morning of the notices of allotments, successful applicants began to appear at the club box offices at Fenway Park. Ticket distribution prior to the date of the opening game will be made from there although the games will be played on Braves Field, the grounds of the local National league club.

To prevent the congestion which interfered with traffic in the vicinity of Braves Field last year new arrangements by the police and club officials were made today. Sale of admission seats at $1 and 50 cents each will be made from offices on the grand stand opposite the grand stand entrance thus obviating the crush which kept many holders of reserved seats from the games last year. These new games will be opened at 9 o'clock on the morning of the games and the gates will be closed as soon as the 16,000 rush seats are filled, according to the plans.

Secretary Riley Collapsed
To complete these arrangements and make possible the playing of the opening games here while the Brooklyn park is being placed in readiness for its first world series, the Boston club has had staffs of clerks at work day and night for more than a week. Secretary Edwin Riley collapsed under the strain and his physician said today that he would be unable to see the team in action in the big games.

Assurances that the Red Sox would be started on the home field by organized local supporters as the local world series contenders have been for years was given today by John M. Killeen, leader of the "Royal Rooters." He reported that President Ebbets of the Brooklyn club had granted a large number of tickets for the Boston party which will follow the fortunes of the team throughout the series.

First indications of the betting odds on the series were available today when Brooklyn was definitely placed as the National league team. Professional gamblers were offered odds of 10 to 1 on Boston. As yet it was said, no Brooklyn money had appeared.

With business activities connected with the approaching series on all sides, the players who have just won the American league title today became further accustomed to the lay of the land at Braves Field. Light batting and fielding practice was the order set by Manager Carrigan.

Horse Show Competition Keen
With a large list of classes and a quality of exhibitors that has never been equaled at the fair, the horse show opened at noon. Improvements had been made in the ring and the exhibitors from all parts of the east say the show will surpass all previous records.

Reginald C. Vanderbilt, who is one of the judges, was early on the scene and was warmly greeted. From the first day's results it is apparent that the contest for the lead in blue rib-bon's is going to be keen. Miss Constance Vauclain, a new exhibitor, brought over a large string of thoroughbreds from her farm in Rosemont, Penn., and was rewarded by winning four blues in the harness classes. The record made by the Thomas F. Murphy of Stoughton, Penn. was 2:15.4. Louis K. Lippett of Newton, exhibiting here for the first time, won a blue in the harness division, and also one in the saddle class. Miss Jones of Lowell, also won a blue in the harness class. Charles H. Jones of Boston won the honors in the saddle classes with two blues.

One of the prettiest sights of the show was the exhibition by the nine Belgian rears of Walter Hanley of Providence. Hitchcock, the champion, trotted the track to the applause of thousands. Every horse weighed at least 2000 pounds, and most of them more than 2200 pounds. They were cleverly driven by Billy Wales.

Track Events Hotly Contested
The track events were run off in quick time by the new starter, Dr. F. E. Stone of Burlington, Wis., who made his first appearance at the fair. There were only three races, in addition to several trotting against time. Two of the races went into extra heats, five being required in the 2:15 class. Trotting, Monte Volo won the opening heat, but after that was not a serious contender. Ruth Todd, driven by Chester Lasell, was fourth in the first heat, but won the next two and first money. Teddy McKerron was the other heat winner.

Ed Sweeney's Michigan King won the 2:12 class, pacing event, after dropping the second heat to Woodcliffe King, driven by Jack Kingsley, who never made a move after the second heat.

Bingen R. from the stable of Fred Pickle, won the 2:25 class, racing sulks in straight heats. Crescent Todd, after finishing third in the first heat, was contented to trail Pickle in the remaining heats, winning second money. The summary:

RETIREMENT OF GERMAN CHANCELLOR DEMANDED

BERLIN, Oct. 3, via London, Oct. 4.—The campaign against Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg is daily assuming a more tangible form. One of the latest developments is a circular demanding the retirement of the chancellor which has been sent by a vociferous group of his opponents to such members of the Reichstag as are considered open to their arguments.

The indictment covers almost everything in the chancellor's conduct of foreign affairs before and during the war. Attacks are made in particular on his attempts to reach an agreement with England, his first attitude toward Belgium neutrality and, naturally, his policy in the submarine issue. The only name of international prominence among the signers is that of Ernst Haackel, and the circular is regarded as symptomatic rather than serious.

Another factor which is disturbing the political situation is a breach of the political truce proclaimed at the outset of the war which has been made by the Saxons. This faction has determined to run a candidate for the seat in the Reichstag vacated by the death of the conservative, Ernst Eduard Giez. This determination violates the general agreement between the political parties that all vacant seats shall be resigned without contest to the party holding them at the outset of the war.

Meanwhile the chancellor and the Reichstag leaders continue to discuss the point at issue behind closed doors. The discussion is being conducted on an even more confidential basis than before. It is being no longer held before the full committee on ways and means, to which all members of the Reichstag are admitted as auditors but in a small select committee of party leaders. Such reports as leak out say that while the antagonism between the chancellor and his opponents has not disappeared the discussion is now being conducted on the basis of reason and not of passion. It is believed that there is good prospect that an agreement will be reached which will avoid the open discussion of issues before the Reichstag. The friends of the chancellor appear to be fully satisfied with the situation and declare that he has it well in hand.

United States is a very strong ordinance with respect to religious observances of marriage as against the cheap civil contracts.

"The second circle is the circle of friendship. You who are young do not know what it means to lose old friends, to have them die and pass out of sight, but older persons do, full well. Whenever you find a man or woman who betrays the inner circle of friendship, then that man or woman is not to be trusted with the widening circle.

"And there are certain circles based on geography, and I do not wish to be misunderstood in this statement. I rather like the cry of the African who said that God had made the sands of the desert, while the angels had made the rest of the world. I believe a man ought to stand by his own. It's the normal thing to do, and God made us that way. When a man gets so broad he is standing by everything anywhere then he is abnormal.

"Another circle, and a wider one, is that which concerns loyalty to the state or the nation. God loves the loyal man, for the man who loves a certain state loves that which makes for good character. I am proud of West Virginia, my native state, and the very mention of its name makes me shiver. When a few years ago, when I was going home, when I saw the roosters on the West Virginia side, they looked like Birds of Paradise to me. It's natural, it's normal, to have that loyalty.

And so on in the circles, until we reach the greatest circle of all, that circle which embraces our God, our belief in His wonderful power, His great love, His command of all life. That is the widest, the greatest, the most sublime of all circles, and all of the good that comes from association within the other circles comes only when the spiritual circle, in communion with God."

BIG RECEPTION TO BISHOP HUGHES IN LOWELL

The Central M. E. church was the scene last night of a public reception to Bishop Edwin H. Hughes and practically every Methodist minister of the city and adjacent territory was present, the reception being tendered by the Methodist churches of this city and surrounding towns.

The exercises opened at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Appleton Grannis, rector of St. Anne's Episcopal church, was the first speaker. He spoke on the great benefits of church co-operation. He deplored conditions here and said that a city like Lowell, with its drunkenness, immorality, bad housing conditions and other things, is a disgrace to our 20th century civilization, and that a preacher should be given full power to speak out in an uncertain manner against them.

Rev. George B. Dean, former pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, in this city, spoke briefly, stating that those present had undoubtedly gathered to hear Bishop Hughes, and the latter was introduced by Rev. Alfred C. Skinner, present pastor of St. Paul's church. Bishop Hughes spoke on the topic,

"The Widening Circle," and said in part:

"The first circle is the family circle. When the centre of a man's life is righteousness, then the first circle is represented by his domestic life. No man can be a good father, a good husband, a good citizen, unless he is a good man, and, to be a good man he must be straight in this first circle of his life if he is ever to be a clean mayor or a clean senator. There are no short cuts.

Examples From History

"History is filled with examples of this. Let us cite a few examples. Rome, when she was on the down grade, would not tolerate Mark Anthony in his illicit love with Cleopatra, and the old Romans turned Antony away from his position because a man who could not be true to his wife could not be true to his country.

"In all that triumph of Ireland, who is on her way to a kind of empire today, there is sedition. If ever men, the greatest of men, Charles Stewart Parnell, the greatest home ruler of all, it is tragic, but his infidelity caused his detestment in short order as the leader of liberty-loving Irishmen. We have had the same thing down in Kentucky. A congressman of ability got mixed into an affair of a similar kind, and his constituents rose en masse and refused to return him to congress. And, again, in Utah, a congressman a few years ago, with two wives, was denied admission to the floors of congress by his fellow congressmen, and they took such action that he was not to be true to his wife, but true to the nation. The instinct of the people is a fairly safe guide after all.

EDISON FOLLOWERS FIGHT FOR WILSON'S ELECTION

When Thomas A. Edison, a life-long republican, announced to the American people that "I'm for Wilson," he aroused interest and reflection in all sections and among all classes, particularly so in the electrical industry, of which he is the recognized head.

A direct result of Mr. Edison's emphatic declaration that he does "not think it a logical or sensible thing to change to an inexperienced and untried man just for the sake of change, or without much better reasons being given for the change than any I have noticed," was the organization of the Woodrow Wilson National Electrical club by leaders in the industry.

Though but a few weeks old, the Wilson Electrical club has several thousand members, 35 states being represented, republicans and progressives figure largely in the membership, as well as democrats and all are enrolled under the slogan "For the Flag and for Wilson."

A vigorous campaign conducted by mail is bringing hundreds of millions daily, while full page advertisements in electrical journals have assisted in enlarging the organization and its scope.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Edison in his statement, "Mr. Hughes, if president, would have found it difficult to declare the best course for the government to take. His capacity for hindsight, as we learn from his speeches, is highly developed, but as to his foresight we are not equally well informed.

The Woodrow Wilson National Electrical club has driven home this point, that has been widely copied and commented upon. This pamphlet describes the achievements of the Wilson administration under the caption "Wilson's Map," in these words:

"The American business man is the wisest in the world. He does not disavow on the basis of his own wisdom a fool-proof executive for a man who is out of a job and one hundred percent applicant. There are twelve big reasons why we—stockholders and directors of this, the greatest, richest, sanest, and most progressive corporation on earth—should keep our wise national manager, Woodrow Wilson, on the job:

"1. The federal reserve act cured us of financial fits—our national disease of panics;

"2. The Underwood tariff act and the tariff commission have freed our tariff of the devastating blight of politics;

"3. The Clayton act clarified the obscurities and threatening vagueness of the Sherman anti-trust law.

"4. The income and inheritance tax laws make the extraordinarily rich contribute a fair share toward national upkeep.

"5. The ship registry act has doubled the tonnage of our merchant marine and restored the American flag to the high seas;

"6. The rural credit act removes the insufferable financial handicap on agriculture;

"7. The good roads law opens up rural trade to broader success;

"8. The Smith-Lever agricultural act carries direct to the farmer the results of scientific experiment.

"9. The child labor act safeguards our children's children to the everlasting credit of the nation.

"10. By enlarging and enormously increasing the efficiency of our army and navy, we are prepared against the possible aggressions of rival nations.

"11. Wilson has preserved the sanity of half the world while the other half weltered in blood, and by keeping us at peace with Europe and certain fighting fingers from the throat of our Mexican neighbor in travail, he has won with the golden rule the greatest victory in the greatest war.

"12. He has given us unprecedented prosperity, despite the world's nagration, and because of good management that he is—he has been impelled by one aim, one desire and one ambition: peace with honor, prosperity with honesty, and results for all the stockholders.

"He has delivered the goods!

Another circular issued by the electrical men which cites government figures to prove the nation's prosperity, with the following comment:

"We are prosperous—the only hungry ones are the 'bouts'—the office-seekers and political job-hunters.

"We are prosperous because we have fought for it—and for nothing else. We have covetous neither our neighbor's property nor his trouble. Wilson cleared the track; he restored business confidence; he adjusted without disorganizing; he reformed without destroying!

"He kept us out of war. We have done the rest."

Have You Tried Real California Raisin Bread, made with SUN-MAID RAISINS. Delicious, Nutritious—both Good and Good for You

Here's news for you! California offers you a true fruit food in Sun-Maid Raisins—selected for you by the growers themselves from 8000 sunlit California vineyards—and in California Raisin Bread, made by bakers everywhere after a recipe supplied by us calling for plenty of these natural, full-flavored raisins. Get a loaf and a package today, at your dealer's. Ask for Sun-Maid Brand. Write us for a raisin recipebook telling of the many culinary uses of raisins, that lend variety to your daily menu and are an economy because of the high food value of raisins. Sun-Maid Raisins come to you seeded (seeds extracted), seedless (seedless grapes), and in clusters (seeds left in).

ON THE WATCH

It is to your interest to buy your watch of us. BECAUSE you can get from us all for your money that any other firm can afford to give you.

BECAUSE, it is wise to buy of some one you know you can depend upon. You will always find us right here, and whatever we sell must be satisfactory or we insist upon being allowed to make it so—that's the beauty of dealing with us.

Our stock of Hamilton, Waltham, and Illinois Watches is most complete. No trouble to show goods.
